Another 200 Trapped Near Dhanbad

Mighty Explosion Comes As Shifts Being Changed

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — An explosion so powerful it wrecked houses and killed men on the surface shattered a coal mine near Dhanbad Friday. More than 200 miners perished and it was feared another 200 were trapped or dead.

Fire broke out last night in the mine, and it appeared flames and smoke were condemning many trapped men to a fiery death.

"It is very bad,' a Ministry of Labor spokesman said. "The flames are driving the rescue teams out."

The official death toll in the east Indian diaster was "more than 200." But unofficial reports reaching New Delhi said about 375 men already were known dead. It was feared the toll would rise to more than 400.

The disaster was shaping up as the worst in the history of India's collieries. R. K. Malviya, deputy labor minister, termed it unprecedented.

Officials flew from the capital to the scene immediately after a board of inquiry was formed.

A shift of 178 miners was being replaced before dawn by another of unknown size when the mighty blast thundered through the Bhori colliery, near Dhanbad, 225 miles northwest of Calcutta.

A shock wave erupted from the mine shaft, killing a group of men working on the surface and injuring 16 others. Timbers blew into the air like straw.

An engine room structure and the mine record office were blown away and several houses near the mine field crumbled. The blast reportedly rocked a four-square mile area.

It was thought by officials in the Ministry of Mines that the explosion resulted when coal dust in the mine was ignited by an electrical spark or a small flame.

Coal dust can gather in explosive quantities in mines, even hanging suspended in the air.

No one knew exactly how many men were underground at the time of the blast. A list of men in the replacement shift was in the mine records office, which was blown away in the blast.

In India, when masses of unskilled labor are used, such things as counting men often are not considered too important.

The mine, part of the Bokaro Ramgarh group, produced about 20,000 tons of coal monthly. The coal fuels furnaces at the Bokaro steel mill which the Russians built for India after the United States withdrew its offer of aid.

Kennedys To Begin Summer Vacation

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (UPI) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy and her two children, Caroline and John, are expected here next week to begin their summer vacation.

The Kennedy summer colony will be increased their year by actor Peter Lawford and his his wife Patricia, sister of the late President, who have rented a home a quarter of a mile from the Kennedy compound.

Astronaut To Rendezvous With Burned-Out Rocket

Cameraman Wounded

White May Try To Touch Ship In Space

Fantastic Stunt Is Disclosed In Surprise Bulletin

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — U.S. astronaut Edward H. White will leap from his orbiting capsule early in June to take a fantastic, self-propelled flight through space, officials disclosed Friday. He will approach—and perhaps touch — another satellite and snap a series of pictures.

In a stunning announcement, the federal space agency said White and Gemini-4 pilot James A. McDivitt would try to "rendezvous" their craft with the burned out Titan-2 second stage rocket that earlier put them in orbit.

White will climb outside the cabin and leap off into space by himself as Gemini-4 crosses over Hawaii on the second orbit.

He will then use a hand-held maneuvering unit with double-barreled rockets to try to nuzzle up to the gleaming white rocket stage which, like White will be whizzing through space at about 17,000 miles an hour.

The pictures he snaps likely will be the most spectacular of the space age.

Latest Experiment

The experiment was the latest to be added to the thrill-packed plans for Gemini-4—a planned four-day voyage that, if all goes well, will match and surpass the best the Soviet Union has yet managed in manned flight.

Still later in the flight, space agency officials said, rookie astronauts McDivitt and White will try again to maneuver up to, or "rendezvous" with—but not actually touch — the Titan-2 rocket.

The fabulous adventure, almost a page out of science fiction, depends upon how gently McDivitt can maneuver his capsule away from the booster rocket at the point of separation about six minutes after blast-off from Cape Kennedy.

If it is soft enough, and doesn't cause the rocket to tumble and fly off in another direction, Gemini-4 and Titan-2 will fly "in formation" around earth never more than about 100 feet apart.

McDivitt will use his control

Colombia Is Facing Maze Of Problems

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — What started as peaceful student demonstrations resulted this week in the stiffest test to date for the nearly three-year-old administration of President Guillermo Leon Valencia.

But it was, Valencia claimed, a crisis that the National Front government would weather despite a complex maze of economic, social and political problems.

Valencia moved with a show of military force and a declaration of state of siege "to re-establish the public and social order" which had been shaken by a chain of student strikes and wild street disorders.

One student died and some 200 persons were injured during the outbursts. Molotov cocktails were thrown at police, who in turn used tear gas on the rioters.

Then Thursday night the government agreed to certain student demands. Student leaders quickly called off their strikes and ordered a return to classes next Monday. Tension eased, but the scars of a week of violence remained.

Still facing the government is this national panorama:

—A chronic dollar shortage, a falling peso exchange rate, strong pressure for a devaluation, and a flight of capital.

—A specially called Congress divided by the emergence of an alliance of small opposition factions and reluctant to act on more than 40 economic and other proposals deemed urgently needed by the government.

—Uneasy concern over a wave of kidnapings, the victims involving some of the country's most prominent families.

—Claims of Communist infiltration and scattered incidents of Castro-type raids in the provinces.

—Strong differences between the Conservative and Liberal parties, which rotate the presidency, over a successor for Conservative Valencia upon completion of his four-year term next year.

—Shortages of prime import materials, inflation, some unemployment, and contraband exports of coffee, the nation's top dollar earner.

Orders 1,700 More Troops To Withdraw

Dominican Republic Situation Continues Shaky, Unsettled

WACO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson urged Friday the creation of new inter-American machinery to keep the peace and guard against "forces of slavery and subversion" in the Western Hemisphere.

"When hours can decide the fate of generations, the moment of decision must become the moment of action," Johnson said in a commencement address at Baylor University.

Johnson hailed the creation of an inter-American peacekeeping military force in the revolt-racked Dominican Republic.

"This may be the greatest achievement of all," he said.

Johnson announced that he issued orders Friday morning for the withdrawal of 1,700 more U.S. troops from the Dominican Republic, bringing to 3,300 the number recalled.

Further Withdrawal

Also, he said, he has instructed Lt. Gen. Bruce Palmer, U.S. commander on the scene, to discuss further withdrawals with Brazilian Gen. Hugo Panasco Alvim, over-all commander of the inter-American force.

"Such action will be taken when the military commanders believe it is safe and warranted by the arrival of further Latin-American forces and the continued stabilization of the military situation," Johnson said.

He did not define the type of international peacekeeping machinery he wants. Presumably, however, he would like to see member nations of the Organization of American States pledge in advance to make troops available immediately to deal with any crisis such as that in the Dominican Republic.

"Out of the Dominican crucible the 20 American nations must now forge a stronger shield against disaster," he said.

King Hussein Complains Of Israeli Raids

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI)—Jordan's King Hussein complained Friday to the United States, Britain and France about a series of Israeli border raids on Jordanian villages Thursday night. He said such "provocations. . .endanger regional security and world peace."

Hussein called in the U.S., British and French ambassadors to discuss three Israeli border raids that a Jordanian spokesman said killed four persons and wounded four others.

The Jordanian monarch also invited the Soviet envoy to the meeting with the Western ambassadors, but he was out of town and could not attend.

A Jordanian military spokesman warned earlier this country's forces would strike back "ruthlessly" with the full support of fellow Arab states if Israel stages further raids across the Jordanian frontier.

The spokesman said the Israeli raiders blew up two houses one flour mill and two pumping stations.

King Hussein told the three Western envoys Jordan "will retaliate the next time Israel violates truce provisions."

Wants Firm Stand

In a speech earlier in the day in the state Capitol in Austin, he said the United States must be "prepared, alert, ready and willing to make certain that aggression does not pay, that subversion shall not succeed."

The occasion for the Austin speech was the unveiling of a full-length portrait of the President by David Philip Wilson. Friends contributed the money for the painting which will hang in the state Senate chamber.

Devoting his Baylor speech almost entirely to the situation in the Dominican Republic, Johnson said "broad outlines of a reasonable settlement are beginning to emerge" under the leadership of Jose Mora, secretary-general of the OAS.

But he cautioned that "the path ahead is long and the way is hard."

French Personnel Withdrawn From Staff Of SEATO

PARIS (UPI)—President Charles de Gaulle Friday ordered all French personnel withdrawn from the military staff of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO). The move was seen as a new French slap at U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

A French Foreign Office spokesman said the French staff members at SEATO headquarters in Bangkok, Thailand, have been instructed to leave by May 31.

It was not clear whether this might be followed by a complete French pull-out from the eight-nation anti-Communist alliance in Southeast Asia.

But the Foreign Office spokesman said it spelled the end of French military cooperation in SEATO, whose membership also includes the United States, Britain, Australia, New Zealand, The Philippines, Pakistan, and Thailand.

Other French sources said they would not be surprised if the French quit the alliance altogether. A member nation can do so on 12 months' notice.

Total Shipping Strike Seen As Possibility

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government and union spokesmen warned Friday that an impending labor crisis threatens to tie up virtually every American merchant ship and cripple U.S. foreign trade on June 15.

"This industry is drifting into what could very well be an almost total strike," said Paul Hall, president of the AFL-CIO Seafarers' International Union.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz agreed that a strike crisis on the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf coasts is likely when union contracts expire June 15. Wirtz first said such a crisis seems "inevitable," but amended that to say "likely."

Hall said negotiations are at a virtual standstill and he blamed the government, saying it had failed to clarify federal maritime policy to give the shipping industry and the dozen unions involved a basis for further talks.

The Seafarers' and other maritime unions have long accused the federal government of adopting policies which encourage runaway U.S. shipping companies to place their vessels under foreign flags.

Peace Force General To Arrive Today

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Gen. Hugo Panasco Alvim, a Brazilian army officer, is arriving Saturday to take command of the inter-American military force, but it will remain essentially in U.S. hands.

Lt. Gen. Bruce Palmer, commander of the U.S. forces in the Dominican Republic, said Friday he, as Alvim's deputy, will keep tactical control.

Palmer expects to decide which troops to use, how to use them, and when in carrying out the mission for the Organization of American States.

"If the OAS and the U.S. government get into a policy conflict, I would have to follow the guidance of my government," Palmer said in an interview. "I wear two hats."

He expressed belief the number of soldiers within the force could be cut to 6,000.

"Assuming that both sides are serious about negotiating a peace settlement and maintaining the cease-fire now in effect, an inter-American force of 6,000 men eventually should be enough," he said.

Shortest Speech

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Here is the complete text of a prepared but undelivered speech in Friday's Congressional Record by Rep. Burt L. Talcott, R-Calif.:

Says Communism Is Spreading In United States

DALLAS (UPI) — U.S. Rep. Joe Pool, D-Tex., who took part in hearings by the House Committee on Un-American Activities Committee in Chicago, said Friday there are "50,000-100,000 card-carrying members of Communist and Communist-front organizations" in the United States.

The committee soon may begin an investigation of Communist infiltration of campus faculties and student bodies, he said.

Pool, returning to his Dallas home, said he and other committee members were under police security during the hearing. He said Chicago police and the Secret Service prevented the hearings from ending in an uproar like those in San Francisco several years ago.

Pool said there is a "widespread resurgence" of communism in the United States. He said that one of the biggest objectives of the Communist party in this country is the young person of college age.

Millions Take To Highways For Holiday

CHICAGO (AP) — The first holiday weekend of the warm season beckoned millions of motorists to the highways Friday.

Weather as cool as early spring covered some Northern areas, and there were scattered wet spots in other parts of the country, but travel was expected to be heavy.

The National Safety Council estimated that motor vehicle fatalities will total between 430 and 510 in the Memorial Day holiday period that began at 6 p.m. local time Friday and will end at midnight Monday.

The record traffic toll for a three-day observance of Memorial Day was set last year. It is 431. The low tally of such deaths during a three-day Memorial holiday in recent years is 204. It was recorded in 1948.

For purposes of comparison The Associated Press made a survey of traffic deaths during a recent three-day nonholiday weekend period — from 6 p.m. Friday May 14 to midnight Monday May 17. They numbered 387.

Memorial Day itself is on Sunday this year. But millions of Americans also have Monday off, giving them three days to go places.

Autos Now Total 86.3 Million In U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—There were 86.3 million motor vehicles registered in the United States last year, the Commerce Department reported Friday.

The department predicted registrations will approach 90-million in 1965.

Holiday Death Log

CHICAGO (AP) — The log of deaths in traffic accidents, boating accidents and by drowning over the three-day Memorial Day weekend began at 6 p.m. Friday. Periodic tabulation during this period is made from across the nation. The report at press time showed:

Midnight EDT: 0 Traffic, 0 Boating, 0 Drowning. Total 0.

Queen Elizabeth II Winds Up Her Visit To Germany

HAMBURG, Germany (AP)—The people hailed Queen Elizabeth II with cheers, foghorns and sirens on the windup of her German tour here Friday, but she has to wait overnight for the traditional gun salute to a departing monarch. That will be at sea.

The Free City of Hamburg, situated at the head of the Elbe River estuary 55 miles from the North Sea, has never saltued a visiting ruler with guns. Cannon shots were reserved solely for warnings of high water.

Everywhere the queen went she was cheered by thousands of well-wishers. A fitting finale was her tour of Hamburg's harbor, Europe's third largest.

She and Prince Philip her husband, made a 50-minute cruise in bright sunshine and a light breeze under escort by a flotilla of police boats.

The queen's tour has kept West Germany in a festive mood for 11 days and the hearty welcome left no doubt of her popularity.

Her visit also dramatized for the average German, often stung by anti-German sentiments expressed in Britain, the community of interest between the two nations.

Coed Who Broke Alabama Color Barrier To Graduate

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Negro coed Vivian Malone said Friday she is proud to be the first of her race to be graduated by the University of Alabama. She graduates Sunday.

Miss Malone said she feels the path she has blazed will make it easier for Negroes to attend the formally all-white institution.

Miss Malone discussed her past two years on the Tuscaloosa campus with newsmen at her dormitory residence.

The only thing abnormal about her university days, she said, was the social aspect.

"I did not attend many dances and that sort of thing," she said. "I feel that this type of activity is for having a good time and I didn't feel that this would have been the case for me."

She explained that she would have been welcomed, but that she probably would have just sat and watched the others.

Miss Malone was well composed and said she was much more at ease than on that spring day two years ago when it took 3,000 federal troops to gain her admittance.

The attractive 22-year-old coed said she held no bitterness for those who tried so hard to keep her from breaking the color barrier at the university.

9 Americans Die In Copter Collision

Mishap Occurs During Battle In Viet Nam

Heavy Losses Inflicted Upon Cong Guerrillas

By RONALD I. DEUTSCH

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A collision of two U.S. Army helicopters in flight killed nine Americans and injured two seriously at the Bien Hoa air base Friday.

Flaming wreckage was scattered at the base, where 27 died May 16 in a series of bomb explosions officially called accidental.

Sister ships of the 118th Helicopter Co.—one rising from its pad and the other descending on a trip from Saigon—smashed into each other only 50 to 100 feet in the air. Other airmen of the company rescued the injured.

The accident came on a day of relatively heavy action in the ground war, sustained air strikes against Communist North Viet Nam and a rise of religious factors in Saigon's current political crisis.

Viet Cong guerrillas staged their first serious attack on defenses of the U.S. Marine beachhead at Chu Lai, 52 miles south of Da Nang, and subsequently cut Highway 1 between those strongholds during clashes with government troops in at least nine areas. They were reported to have partly destroyed one or two bridges.

Ten Marines Wounded

One Marine was killed and 10 were wounded in the brief opening fight, six miles west of Chu Lai. Six Viet Cong were killed and one was wounded and captured during the exchange of small arms fire and grenades.

Both sides made offensive strikes below Saigon.

Guerrillas armed with mortars and recoilless rifles overran a militia outpost at Mea Thanh Ha, 15 miles southwest of this city. They killed 24 men and wounded 12. A U.S. military spokesman said an undetermined number of the militiamen were missing. One Viet Cong was reported killed.

A government spokesman said 95 guerrillas were killed and 15 captured in a sweeping operation in Phong Dinh Province, 95 miles southwest of Saigon. Government casualties were 10 killed and 39 wounded. In addition four Americans—three ground advisers and a helicopter pilot—were injured slightly.

North of the border radar sites at Hon Matt, Hon Nieu and Cua Lo—a collection of offshore and inland early warning stations—were blasted in successive raids by American planes.

Installations on Hon Matt, 10 miles at sea, were hit twice.

A U.S. spokesman said ground fire was heavy and cloud cover was a problem at times, but all planes returned safely.

Crisis Atmoshere

In Saigon, a crisis atmosphere attending differences between Premier Phan Huy Quat and Chief of State Phan Khac Suu over recent Cabinet shifts was heightened as several religious groups took a hand.

The Rev. Hoang Quynh, a Roman Catholic leader, protested to Suu about a recently drafted law on religion that some Catholics consider gives Catholicism a status inferior to Buddhism.

A key figure in the dispute is Nguyen Van Vinh, whom Catholics consider their main representative in the government. Quat Tuesday named Nguyen Trung Trinh, an engineer, to replace him as minister of economy, but Vinh refused to resign. Backing him up, Suu has refused to approve this and other changes ordered by Quat.

The chief of state is a Cao Daist. Quat is a Buddhist.

Apparently because of the political situation, Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor delayed his scheduled departure for periodic consultations in Washington.

Living With Bullet In Heart

Dale McGlasson, 32, of Evergreen, Colo., must spend the rest of his life with a bullet in his heart. McGlasson is recovering in a Denver hospital from wounds suffered when he dropped a small pistol and the bullet coursed upward through his body lodging in the heart. Surgeons said the heart has started healing around the bullet and removing it may be more dangerous than helpful.

Doctors Open Heal-In Drive In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Officials of County General Hospital faced a busy holiday weekend Friday hopeful they have stemmed a two-day flood of patients admitted by resident physicians in a "heal-in" pay protest.

"We had an increase in admissions and a slowdown in discharges Tuesday and Wednesday but administrative action was taken and the situation had returned to normal last night," said the hospital administrator, Robert Thomas.

"Holiday weekends are always busy so we expect a heavy patient load for the next few days but we hope this will have stabilized by Tuesday."

Thomas said a number of the 200 interns and 350 resident physicians in the 3,300-bed hospital were unhappy with a recent $10-a-month increase in pay, which ranges from $330 to $645 a month.

A delegation told County Supervisor Kenneth Hahn Thursday they had started what they called a "heal-in" by increasing admissions and lowering the discharge rate.

"They were admitting patients who might otherwise have been refused and keeping under treatment some who might have been sent home," Thomas said. "In effect, they were saying that if they couldn't have a better pay increase they would do this to get the maximum teaching benefit from their work.

"There is nothing wrong with this as long as they stay within the range of the hospital's capacity and so far they have done so."

The patient load last Tuesday was 2,503. It increased to 2,756 Wednesday and reached a peak Thursday of 2,916 — but Thomas said this was well under the capacity.

Dr. Williams Evans, medical director of the hospital, said the protest group has promised him "nothing will be done which interferes with the best care available to patients."

Fastest Gavel Is Slowing Down

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Is Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., long regarded as the fastest gavel in the Senate, over the hill?

Metcalf showed signs Friday that he could no longer rap the Senate in and out of session as fast as he did in his salad days.

It took Metcalf four seconds Friday to adjourn the Senate's pro-forma session at 9 a.m. EDT. When he was at his peak he twice gavelled the end of a session in two seconds, an all-time record.

The Senate, required by law to meet every third day, was forced to hold the quickie session so members could take a Memorial Day recess until Tuesday.

Maryland Briefs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The post office at Cedarhurst, Carroll County, Md., is closed Friday and beginning Saturday its patrons will get their mail from the Finksburg post office.

Rep. Clarence D. Long, D-Md., recommended the step as an economy measure, pointing out that the Finksburg post office is less than a mile from Cedarhurst.

FREDERICK (AP) — Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree when she delivers the commencement address June 6 at Hood College.

Also to receive honorary degrees are Dr. Olive I. Reddick, former economics professor and now director of the U.S. Educational Foundation in India, and Mrs. Theodore R. Rupner, a Frederick County native and Hood graduate who is now a civic leader in Los Angeles County, Calif.

Hood will graduate 135 women this year.

OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP) — A reception Friday night preceded a Saturday conference of the Federation of Republican Women of Maryland.

State Sen. Mary Brooks of Idaho will address a luncheon and Reps. Rogers C. B. Morton and Charles McC. Mathias will speak at a banquet.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Catholic Charity Fund Appeal headquarters announced Friday that contributions this year were $19,000 ahead of 1964 with the drive not officially ended until Monday.

Contributions this year have amounted to $1,176,976.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Maryland traffic toll this year reached 228 Friday, 40 more than in 1964.

Miss Dorothy Johnson, 22, of Washington was the latest victim. She was injured fatally when a car went off Washington Boulevard and struck a pole.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Two federal prisoners who escaped last Christmas Eve from the National Institute of Health in Bethesda where they were cooperating in medical research were sentenced to 10 years more Friday.

Richard T. Rushing, 29, of Natchez, Miss., and Harry E. Collier, 33, Ashland, W.Va., were arrested in Washington Dec. 29.

U.S. Judge Harrison L. Winter sentenced each to five years for escaping and another five for taking a taxicab in Bethesda, driving it to Virginia and abandoning it.

County 'Headstart' Funds Approved

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners was notified yesterday that Gov. Tawes has approved 'Operation Headstart' for the county.

The program is designed to assist pre-school children get a better start when they attend school next term.

Notice of the governor's approval was received in a letter from Joseph M. Szuleski, program development officer of the Office of Economic Opportunity for Maryland.

Bloodmobile Due At Kelly, June 2, 3

The Red Cross bloodmobile unit will visit the Kelly Springfield Tire Company Plant Wednesday and Thursday from 10 to 4 instead of Tuesday and Wednesday as reported in the Cumberland News yesterday.

On Tuesday, the unit from Johnstown Regional Center will be at the American Legion Home, Westernport, from noon until 6 p.m.

Guild Furls The Banner In Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP) — With Baltimore's dailies back in publication for the second day, the striking American Newspaper Guild announced Friday that its interim newspaper, The Banner, "is furled."

The Guild, which struck the Sun newspapers April 17, published 25 issues of the 16-page tabloid.

"Its mission, to supply readers in the Baltimore area with pertinent news in the absence of printed media, has been accomplished," said a front page announcement.

The Sun and the rival News American both suspended publication with editions of April 20.

Besides the Guild paper, three other interim papers were published briefly.

The Sun's morning edition reappeared Thursday followed by afternoon editions of both it and the News American. Return of a limited number of mechanical employes at the Sun plant prompted the resumption.

The craft union members previously had declined to cross the Guild picket lines.

The Guild strike continued through its 42nd day with no negotiations on an agreement scheduled. At issue are wages and Guild security of membership.

Astronaut To

jets — the ones successfully tested by astronauts Virgil I. Grissom and John W. Young last March 23 — to close the gap to about 25 feet.

Then White will go out of the capsule into space, wearing a $26,000 suit of space clothes and 22 layers of material to protect him from the hostile environment.

White will be securely attached to the Gemini-4 capsule by a 25-foot nylon lifeline. But it will permit him freedom to move almost at will in that radius.

The hand-held propulsion unit, shaped something like a child's bicycle handlebars, employs oxygen jets with one pound of thrust each to push him from place to place. He can operate the gadget by simply squeezing.

The camera will be attached to the "handlebar" portion of the unit, officials said.

A federal space agency spokesman said the maneuver probably would put White within touching distance of the Titan-2. But whether he will actually reach out and make such an attempt would depend on several factors, including whether the Titan-2 was tumbling.

After finishing his extraordinary picture - taking mission, White will "reel" himself back in and re - enter the capsule. Then McDivitt will fire the maneuvering jets again to put Gemini-4 about 16 miles behind the booster.

On the fifth orbit, as the capsule passes over the South Atlantic between South America and Africa six hours and 40 minutes after lift-off, the astronauts will try again to drive their ship toward the rocket stage.

However, no attempt is expected on that occasion to have White leave the capsule.

Federal space agency manned spaceflight chief George Mueller said that "if successful, we will have done some things that the Russians have not tried. . . maneuvering to rendezvous and maneuvering an astronaut in space with a maneuvering unit."

These are vital steps man must master before he can conduct flights to the moon or build giant platforms in orbit around earth.

Gen. Maxwell Taylor To Return Sunday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, U.S. Ambassador to South Viet Nam, will arrive in Washington Sunday morning for consultations.

The State Department said Friday Taylor was due to arrive at Andrews Air Force Base, Md. at 9:30 a.m. EDT Sunday.

Taylor postponed his departure from Saigon for about a day.

Officials said he had waited to see how the Saigon government would handle its latest internal political problem before leaving. They said the agitation and pressures against the Saigon government did not appear to foreshadow any real crisis.

Negroes Register Without Incident

GREENVILLE, Miss. (UPI)—Sixteen Negro children registered Friday for second grade classes in previously all-white Greenville schools without incident.

The advanced registration for all fall classes marked the first voluntary desegregation of public schools in Mississippi. Greenville city schools also were the first in Mississippi to agree to lower segregation barriers under the 1964 compliance pledge.

First grades in city schools at Jackson and Biloxi and in Leake County desegregated first grades last fall under federal court order.

Sailplane Event This Weekend At Local Airport

Sailplane enthusiasts warming up for the Eighth Mid-Atlantic Regional Soaring Meet to be held here took part in a practice session yesterday at the Municipal Airport.

About 30 of the glider craft, six entered by local pilots, are expected to participate in the meet today through Wednesday. Soaring buffs from as far away as New York City, Fort Benning, Ga., and Danbury, Conn. are entered in the competition. A pilot's weather briefing will be held daily at 10 a. m. and the flying is scheduled to get underway at 11:30 a. m.

The contest divisions are based on the class of aircraft to be flown. The divisions include the "Standard Austria" and "Schweitzer 1-26" classes and the open competition. Cross-country flights from 50 to 200 miles may be made, depending on weather conditions. Hops to Petersburg, Martinsburg or Winchester and back are often made during meet competition and the local record for a sailplane flight is 220 miles.

Pilots will be competing for several honors including the Kelly-Springfield Trophy, for overall performance; the Bendix Trophy, for best performance by a team; the 1-26 Trophy, for best performance in that type of craft, and the Schemp-Hirth Trophies, which come from Germany and are offered for the best flight and best individual performance. A point system will be used to decide the winners.

Cadets of the Cumberland Composite Squadron, Civil Air Patrol, will assist at the meet, CAP officers report. Some of cadets have been assigned as ground crew members and to assist with landings and takeoffs, while others will serve refreshments and help with the parking.

Local pilots entered in the event are William Holbrook, Dr. Robert Poling, Geoge Nash, A. Gene Moore, Franklin H. Young and Donald Wasness. A Keyser flyer, Joe Woodard, will also take part.

Fort Hill Band To Play Tomorrow At NY Fair

Fort Hill High School's Senior Band left yesterday for New York where it will give a concert Sunday at 2:30 p.m. in the Tipparillo Pavilion of the World's Fair.

The trip climaxes a year of fund-raising activities to give the concert and each member's cost as well as that of the chaperones is being paid through efforts of band members.

Neil Williams, director, said the 88 members of the band determined cost of the trip, "split it up" and then ... up a fund-raising project for each month during the past year to raise money.

These included the sale of candy, hoagies and other such items. The final project was completed last month, Mr. Williams said, adding that it took a year to attain the money.

Chaperones for the trip in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Williams, will be Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hahne, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hite, Mr. and Mrs. George Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. William Leeson, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dicken and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. O'Neal.

The band, traveling by bus, stayed at the Park Crescent Hotel, Riverside Drive last night. This morning, a tour of the General Motors exhibit at the fair has been arranged prior to the official opening for the day.

The remainder of today will be spent in sightseeing.

Sunday morning will be spent in sightseeing and the concert will be that afternoon. Monday, the morning will be spent in a final tour of sightseeing and the band will board buses at 1 p.m. for the return home, arriving between 9 and 10 p.m., Mr. Williams said.

The program to be presented will be a varied one, featuring mostly Broadway show tunes, marches and jazz, Mr. Williams said. The band's majorettes will be provided with a special place in front of the band pavilion where they will perform their routines while the band is playing.

Youth Flees Court After Being Sentenced

A young soldier who escaped custody after being sentenced to the House of Correction yesterday was recaptured shortly afterward along the B&O tracks bordering Henderson Avenue.

Raymond Clark Smith Jr., 18, of 613 North Centre Street, was sentenced to 18 months after being found guilty by Associate Judge James S. Getty on a charge of unauthorized use of a car owned by Glenn Watson. He had driven the car to Romney where he had an accident in Smith was recaptured by Deputy Sheriff George B. Staup within about a half-hour of his escape.

Judge Getty told the youth that people have a right to protection of their property and two years ago he had been given probation on a similar violation. The youth, in addition, is AWOL from Fort Eustis, Va.

When the youth left the court room on the second floor of the building he suddenly darted downstairs, out the front door and headed past the County Library in the direction of the Market Street bridge across Wills Creek.

Paul W. Barnett was Smith's court-appointed attorney.

Little Selma March Moves At Slow Pace

BRANDON, Miss. (UPI) — A colorful band of 125 civil rights demonstrators trooped down rural Route 471 on a "little Selma" march Friday with Mississippi state police clearing the way and a patrol plane flying overhead.

The demonstrators marched three abreast along the asphalt roadway, some of them waving small American flags and singing:

"Keep your eyes on the prize —hold on!"

The front ranks were made up of "home folks" — middle age Negro women in bright house dresses and floppy straw hats, and men in their work garb of overalls and heavy shoes.

Marchers were strung out for about 75 yards and the line moved at a fairly slow pace.

Bringing up the rear were the civil rights workers, some of them with beards and cowboy boots. Several had an earring in one ear.

About 25 whites were in the ranks, including two young girls.

The marchers planned to take two days to cover 14 miles between Fannin, starting point of the march, and Brandon, the county seat of Rankin County.

James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, was to meet the marchers at the county courthouse in Brandon at noon EDT Saturday. A delegation then will attempt to present a petition to officials protesting alleged discrimination against Negro voters.

Beall Teacher Gets Fellowship

John D. Kelly, guidance counselor at Beall High School, Frostburg, has been awarded a General Electric Foundation summer fellowship in guidance by Boston University, Boston, Mass.

The all expense fellowship provides for six weeks of graduate study at Boston U. and a study of occupations and careers through trips to GE facilities, as well as personal interviews with employes and seminars with company personnel from all major employment areas.

Mr. Kelly is one of 50 outstanding counselors from high schools in the 11 northeastern states chosen by the university as participants in the program that starts July 11.

Mr. Kelly, his wife and son reside at 1211 Bedford Street.

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI) — Police Thursday reported the death of Calazan Arias at the age of 130 years. They said he left 35 children and 90 grandchildren.

Howard County Blocks Bill On Referendum

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Howard County voters have blocked a bill calling for a special referendum Nov. 6 on whether the board of county commissioners should be expanded and reorganized.

Mrs. James Beggs, chairman of the county's Republican State Central Committee which organized a petition drive against the bill, described it Friday as a "save charter government" movement.

She filed with the secretary of state petitions bearing 836 voter signatures of the 1,076 that will be required to place the matter at the 1966 general election ballot. She said backers of the drive hope to collect 1,300 to 1,400 before they're through and are screening them carefully to make sure they are valid.

"One of the things we disliked most was that the referendum was set for a Saturday election in November," she said. "Not more than 30 per cent of the voters will normally turn out for a special election."

Dryer Catches Fire

West Side Fire Company was called to 509 Dunbar Drive early yesterday afternoon after a clothes dryer caught fire. Firemen said the only damage was to the appliance and its contents.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just read the letter from the girl who has a weight problem. That makes two of us, only she is 19 and I am 14.

You suggested she see a physician or a counselor. My mothers says I am too young to see a physician or a counselor. I am not arguing, because I know what my problem is.

I keep seeing pictures of starving kids from foreign countries. They are holding empty bowls and spoons and their eyes are so sad. This fractures me. Some weeks I give my whole allowance to missions but I still feel I'm not doing enough. I've already decided to join the Peace Corps.

I keep thinking of those starving kids and I can't stop eating. What shall I do? — FAT MISSIONARY FROM CANTON

DEAR MISH: Try reverse psychology. Find some pictures of fat people. Whenever you feel like gorging yourself, look at a picture.

A fat missionary would have a very tough time in the jungle. For the sake of humanity you must keep your weight down.

If this doesn't work tell your mother that people of ALL ages need to be checked periodically by a doctor.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My wife is always shoving your column under my nose, especially when you have a letter about a husband who likes to drink beer and sit in front of the TV set. Please print this letter so I can shove it under her nose.

We have three good sons, the oldest 12, the youngest 7. Whenever one of them has a fight with a neighborhood kid my wife jumps right in, phoning mothers and going over in person to "make sure our boy comes out all right."

The kids always make up but my wife is not on speaking terms with half the neighborhood. Please print your advice. —THE OLD MAN

DEAR MAN: A mother who becomes involved in the petty squabbles of her children is more childish than than they are.

Ask your wife to please wait until you get home before she "does anything." By then the trouble will have been settled—by the kids.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our niece, who is only 27, lost her young husband in a tragic accident six months ago. They had been married less than a year.

Her parents felt that Regina would be better off in another city — away from memories—so they asked if she could live with us until she found a job and an apartment of her own. We were delighted to help.

Regina has been with us four months. She found an excellent position as a bilingual secretary at $125 a week and seems to have recovered from her grief. She has a date almost every night.

The girl says nothing about finding her own apartment. In the meantime I am doing her washing and ironing and preparing her meals. She entertains in our home and hands me the grocery list for her parties. She has never offered to pay for anything — says she wouldn't insult us by suggesting our hospitality is purchasable.

We are pleased that Regina feels at home here but we think she should start to pay for room and board. On the other hand, she has suffered a great tragedy and we feel sorry for her. Advise us please.—JUST FOLKS

DEAR FOLKS: If Regina is dating every night she has recovered. Suggest that she "insult" you with about $30 a week until she finds a place of her own — which will cost her at least twice as much.

Do you lean on cigarettes as a social crutch? You may regret it later. Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Smoking," enclosing with your request 10c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Be Discreet

Before a woman can really be thought of as charming, she must cultivate fine inner qualities. The true charmer strives throughout her life to have a generous heart, a sense of humor, a sympathetic attitude, and to possess an open mind.

We of the Powers family describe these characteristics as "awareness, caringness, humanness, and outgivingness."

A charming woman needs a great deal of self-control. Neither the sob sister nor the termagant portrays to a man or child ideal womanhood. We all know that deep sorrow and righteous indignation at the right times are valid emotions. But there is certainly nothing to be admired in a display of uncontrollable temper, nor tears over slight inconveniences or even rebuffs.

A charming woman must be discreet. She never expresses a quick opinion or criticism. Nor does she make "confessions" to friends that she regrets later. Nor does she permit friends to confess so much to her that soon she finds their secrets a burden. It is well to remember the old Negro mammy's wisdom: "I tells a little, and I keeps a little."

A charming and successful woman always has humility. That doesn't mean she lets others step on her. We think it is wise to remember that "the world is too full of pins for anyone to be puffed up, but it is also too full of nails for anyone to be a doormat."

To be charming learn to laugh at yourself. With a lucky few, this is really a gift of the fairy godmothers. It can be acquired . . . the secret? Detach your mind from your self.

TO GLAMORIZE: COLORIZE. To colorize you must know "Your Color Type," a helpful little booklet that can make you a master in the use of color in your wardrobe and makeup. To get your copy, send 10c along with a stamped, return envelope to John Robert Powers in care of this newspaper.

Grange Honors Veterans At Hyndman Meet

HYNDMAN — The Hyndman Grange met with Millard Shaffer, master, in charge. A community service report was given by Colleen Hite who said 130 mail boxes and posts were painted by men of the Grange and names were painted on the boxes by ladies of the Grange.

The Grange will donate a $25 savings bond to the graduate in Hyndman High School chosen by classmates as contributing the most to the welfare of the class.

Datha Burkett, home economics committee, reported that Dorothy Kreigline won third place in the Pomona cotton dress contest and also thanked those who helped with the dinner.

The program was to honor veterans. Lela Bateson, lecturer, was in charge. Rev. James Ryan led the group in devotions.

Dennis Harbert, commander of the local VFW post, spoke on the history of the organization and its work. The chorus led the group in singing favorite war time songs.

The Grange will sponsor a festival and bake sale Saturday, June 12 at the hall.

The Junior Grange met with Linda Deremer, master, presiding. Harry Ritchey, Hyndman postmaster, spoke on Memorial Day. Both groups will meet June 4.

Bloodmobile Will Visit Westernport

WESTERNPORT — The Red Cross Bloodmobile Unit of Johnstown, Pa. will make its second quarterly visit to the Tri-Towns Tuesday, at Victory Post 155, American Legion Home, Washington Street, from noon until 6 p.m.

The quota for the visit is 90 pints of blood and Mrs. Paul Cueva, chairman, urges all donors to keep their appointments. Those who do not have an appointment may walk in any time during the afternoon, she said.

Mrs. Cueva will be assisted by Mrs. Carlton Bell, co-chairman, Mrs. Bernadine Appel and Mrs. Mary Peterson are co-chairmen of the telephone committee for the recruitment of blood donors. Dr. James H. Wolverton Jr. will be in charge of scheduling the doctors; Mrs. Marian Kalbaugh, nurses; Mrs. Evelyn Malcolm, Grey Ladies; Mrs. Cueva, typists; Mrs. Owen Rhodes, canteen.

Members of Victory Post will assist with the unloading of the Bloodmobile equipment and members of the Senior Boy Scout troop will be on hand for the reloading when the center closes at 6 p.m.

Area Wood Carver Displays Works At Keyser Library

KEYSER, W. Va. — Kermit Martin of New Creek, has placed several of his wood sculptures on exhibit at Keyser-Mineral County Public Library, through the month of June.

Mr. Martin is a self-taught sculpture and painter. For his work in wood he uses only a pen knife.

The exhibit includes a stylized deer worked in native cherry; a horse carved from a block of walnut, and several articles in basswood.

Several books on wood-working and sculpturing are to be found with the exhibit.

Mr. Martin currently has a wood sculpture of a deer entered in an Art Show at the Hercules Country Club, Wilmington Dela. He has also written a book "Wood Carving Manual" which is soon to be published.

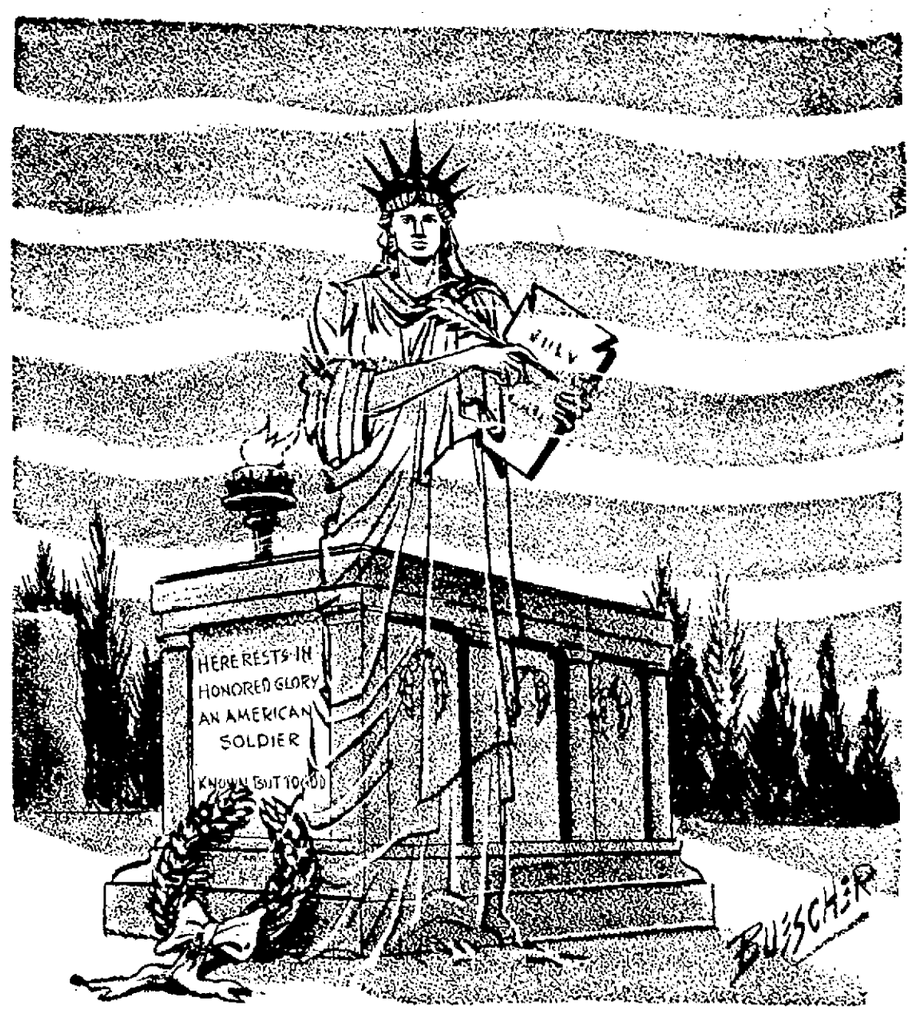
'Lest We Forget'



Memorial Day: More Than A Holiday

May 30 is the day set aside to honor those who served in defense of their country. Originated after the Civil War, the observance included a prayer of thankfulness for peace, and the hope that the American people would never again suffer from the cruelties of conflict. Since then the United States has engaged in five wars, two of them worldwide.

The heart of Memorial Day is a resolution on the part of the living that they will so conduct themselves as to aid in constructing a world in keeping with the ideal for which those honored fought and died.

The battle dead can do no more. They have given their all. We, the living, can memorialize them only by taking up their heroes' gage and strive for the ideals for which they fought.

On this Memorial Day, as they did on similar days in the past, Americans will mix reverence with recreation. Families will journey to cemeteries, some in distant places, to lay wreaths on the graves of loved ones. In addition to paying tribute to cherished memories, many have made provision for relaxation as family groups.

Memorial Day is an intimate spiritual occasion of secular derivation and sponsorship. Minds turn inwardly in prayer and remembrance, yet the occasion is a public one. War, whose dead are commemorated on Memorial Day, is of course a form of public policy. Its tragedies, however, strike deep into the hearts of the personally bereaved. Lives of Americans as patriotic nationals and as private individuals are completely intertwined.

Both threads are part of the whole cloth. If one should weaken, the entire fabric might unravel.

America's strength is the sum and substance of the strength of her people. That the American people have found the proper balance in their ability to pray, play and work accounts for a large part for their success as a society.

Backstage Slowdown Stalls Move To Oust Mississippi Congressmen

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON—It looks as if Speaker John McCormack's backstage slowdown to protect the Mississippi Congressmen from being unseated is already getting results.

Rita Schwerner, widow of one of the three freedom workers murdered at Philadelphia, Miss., found this out when she and other civil rights leaders called on Ralph Roberts, Clerk of the House of Representatives, to ask when the report of the House Administration Committee on seating the Mississippians would be reported out. Theaima boeetlMrbRsr. ed out. The amiable Mr. Roberts indicated that it would take many months.

"The 1947 Reorganization Act of the House requires that it be reported out by July 4," Mrs. Schwerner told him.

"Oh, we don't pay any attention to that," replied the affable Clerk of the House.

"Have you had any other cases similar to this since the 1947 Act was passed?" asked William Higgs, an attorney for the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party.

"Only one," replied Roberts after a little thought. "Usually these cases go on into the second session of Congress — if they ever come out of committee at all."

Obviously he was in no hurry to have the House vote just after the Senate debated the Negro voting rights bill. It's on this question of Mississippi's refusal to permit Negroes to vote last November that the move has been made to unseat the Mississippi Congressmen. Naturally delay is in their favor. The temper of Congress right now, after the Selma beatings and the Klan trial for the murder of Mrs. Liuzzo, would be to unseat them.

More Delay

Mrs. Schwerner also asked Roberts to set a date for a confrontation with ex-Governor James Coleman of Mississippi, who represents the Mississippi Congressmen. Roberts said Coleman couldn't come to Washington for two weeks.

Higgs pressed for an early hearing, but Roberts said he himself had to go out to Indiana to receive an award from his home town high school.

"I may stay out in Indiana a little longer than just a day or tv ," Roberts stalled. "Furthermore the record may not be printed in time."

"How long will it take to print the record?" Roberts was asked.

"Oh, perhaps two or three months," the Clerk replied.

"The House Judiciary Committee had its 1,300-page report on the voting rights bill printed over the weekend," Higgs reminded Roberts. "Our affidavits aren't much longer than that. The government printing office can turn this out in no time at all."

However, the man who runs the red tape machinery in the House of Representatives continued to stall. He is answerable to Speak- John McCormack.

LBJ And Ambassadors

President Johnson has overwhelmed foreign premiers and potentates with his Texas-style diplomacy, but he is not exactly a hit with their ambassadors in Washington.

The President likes to deal with the top man and tends to bypass lesser officials. As a result, some ambassadors feel that they are treated as errand boys.

They complain that the President seldom sees them except in groups on formal occasions, that he almost never invites them to the White House for private talks.

Recently Secretary of State Dean Rusk has been trying to nail down the latest complaint that has come out of Embassy Row. It reportedly came from one of the three new ambassadors summoned to the White House to present their credentials.

They were Sir Patrick Dean of Britain, Radomiro Romic Romero of Chile, and Torbey Ronne of Denmark.

Each would have preferred a private audience, but they were brought in to see the President together. After the formalities, they were quickly dismissed.

As they were leaving the White House, the President had an after-thought and sent aides scurrying to fetch them back to pose for pictures.

Bewildered, Sir Patrick Dean grumped: "What is all this about?"

"I think the President wants to have your pictures taken," an aide explained.

Later, the word was whispered around that one of the ambassadors had complained about the presentation — picture-taking and all.

Rusk delicately approached the Danish Ambassador at a reception.

"How did you enjoy the presentation?" asked Rusk coyly.

"I enjoyed it very much," said Ambassador Ronne.

"Oh," said Rusk. "That's fine. Then you weren't the one who was complaining."

Note — most nations send their best men to Washington, men who have influence in the policy councils at home. Their reports shape the attitudes of their governments toward the United States.

Merry-Go-Round

American officials recently seized upon a picture of Col. Francisco Caamano Deno, the Dominican rebel leader, with a clenched fist as evidence of his alleged pro-communist leanings. Then someone pointed out that the San Juan Star, the paper first published the picture, also ran a photograph of President Johnson with a clenched fist in the same edition. . . . Government researchers have adapted the "explosive puffing process" used to make puffed wheat, and puffed rice to produce other food. They have been able to create instant blueberries, apples, carrots and beets.

'Union Security' Clauses Coerce A Minority

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — While President Johnson's message last week used only a few words to outline a reguest that Congress forbid the states to maintain any of their laws interfering with compulsory unionization, the administration, through Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz, now has given a full explanation of its reasons for sponsoring the move.

Mr. Wirtz declares that "the real issue involved is not widely understood," and he is absolutely right about this. In his testimony, however, before a special labor subcommittee of the House Committee on Education and Labor, he does not really make it any better understood as a desirable piece of legislation, though he does make a good case as to why the unions naturally want to collect more dues from persons who are not now members and who, as a matter of principle, do not favor unionization.

The secretary says that "the principal issue is whether an employer and the representative of his employes are to be free to make an agreement of their own choosing." But this has never really been in dispute. For if it were a mere matter of permitting unions to make agreements with employers, there would be no controversy. It's a fact that by these very agreements persons who do not want to belong to a union are compelled to do so anyway or lose their jobs. The secretary adds:

"The real issue is whether a company and a labor union should or should not be permitted — so far as the law is concerned — to agree that all employes of the company who are represented by the union should share the expense of maintaining the union and having it represent them in their dealings with the employer."

This is tantamount to saying that individuals should be compelled to pay the expenses of various organizations whose activities result in benefits for them. The Secretary of Labor argues that all employes should share the cost of negotiating and administering collective-bargaining agreements and of the adjustment and settlement of disputes. He describes all employes as "beneficiaries," and remarks that those workers who do not pay such expenses are called "free riders."

But do the unions really pay for all the expenses of collective bargaining? The employer pays a large share as he incurs heavy costs in conducting union negotiations and carrying out bargaining procedures.

No arrangement is ever made whereby the unions share the expenses of the employer arising out of bargaining negotiations. Each union undertakes the negotiations of its own initiative, and employes who do not care to belong to a union have the right — specifically affirmed by a Supreme Court decision — even to carry their individual grievances to the employer without going through the union. All employes must, of course, abide by the terms of the agreement reached with a union as to working conditions, but they are under no obligation to pay any of the bills of either the employer or of the union. Secretary Wirtz further says in his testimony:

"There's no violation of freedom in a minority's having to accept the majority's fair judgment fairly arrived at."

But is this true? Would all the organizations representing Negroes, for example, agree with the view that a minority has to accept a majority's judgment? Would racial demonstrations and integration of public facilities in the south have been initiated if the minority were compelled to accept the view of the majority?

It has been argued that the worker really doesn't have to join a union and that all he has to do is to pay an initiation fee and tender periodic dues to the union. Mr. Wirtz says that "the employe cannot be required to attend union meetings, to accept union discipline, or to engage in union ritual" and that he is "required only to pay his way like everyone else."

But, whether a member or not, a worker does have to accept "union discipline." He doesn't dare to cross a picket line in those states where right-to-work laws do not exist. In states with right-to-work laws, the employe is usually protected against coercion and violence when there is a strike.

The Secretary of Labor says it's all part of a private issue — that is, "whether the private parties to collective bargaining are or are not to be free to decide the union security issue as they see fit." But this same "union security issue" affects the rights of individuals in the minority as well. The right of a majority in a private organization to make rules for its members is conceded. But to compel persons who do not wish to belong to a particular organization to pay dues to such a group involves a discrimination against dissenters. They must, in other words, pay a financial penalty.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

RUSSIAN MOON SHOT — It is, of course, impossible to fathom Russian intentions in anything it announces or doesn't announce concerning its space program. However, the first Russian effort to state the intention of one of its space shots before actual completion has raised new questions in the minds of Washington's Kremlinologists.

The Russians let the world know they intended to "soft land" a Moon probe device that would continue to transmit telemetry information—something the U.S. is planning to attempt some months hence. But something went wrong.

The Soviet vehicle malfunctioned and apparently crashed on making the Moon landing. The effort is scored as one of the few failures that can be directly attributed to the Soviet space effort.

There have been others, of course. But none of the past failures can be traced, in a propaganda sense, directly back to a publicly announced Russian space shot.

The main reason for Washington interest lies in conjecture about why the Russians deviated from the usual practice of saying nothing until success is demonstrable. One intriguing probability is that the U. S. practice of saying what it plans to do—and then doing it to the accompaniment of live television and other immediate publicity techniques—has gotten under Soviet skins.

Obviously, the Soviets withheld their announcement of the Moon shot until they were as sure as they could be that it would be a success. Just as apparent is the inescapable conclusion that the Russian space art is not as advanced as they'd like the rest of the world to believe.

The whole incident has served to diminish the impression that Russia is far, far ahead of the United States in space technology. It remains to be seen whether they will continue to make advance announcements or revert to their old system.

Babson's View

By Roger W. Babson

Broader Automation

BABSON PARK, Mass.—Every day more employers and workers have to learn to adapt to automation as it stretches out ever more powerfully throughout our industrial and service companies. There is no longer evident the earlier wild fear that automation means massive unemployment, and possibly depression. But there is now the spreading realization that changes brought about by automation must be intelligently and mutually faced by both management and labor.

Management And Worker Responsibilities

To begin with, employers and employes must recognize that efficient electronic machines are still in their relatively early stages, and that much greater incursions of these mechanical miracles are to be seen. Management must resort to the automated machinery best suited to its needs if it is to meet its rising competition. Employers—even though they may be small or in outlying areas—will eventually be left far behind if they ignore the cost cutting and time saving which are made possible by automation.

Of great importance also is the absolute necessity of winning worker support for such innovations, — and that can best be done well in advance. Many working men and women quite naturally fear change, and rumors that new machines are going to be installed often upset established company staffs. Best method of smoothing the path is to inform workers, in the greatest possible detail, of any potential efficiency moves well before formal public announcement is to be made. Every effort should be expended to make relocation, retraining, and possible replacement issues mutually acceptable.

Company Attitude Can Bypass Trouble

Unless employes are made part and parcel of the planning process, they are bound to worry about unexpected layoffs and their production efforts will be hurt. Managements will find it well worth while to keep in close contact with their staff members in person, by letter, and via meetings which furnish supervisory explanation. The results of contemplated technological changes should be specified, particularly as to betterment in working conditions, competitive position, wages, and long-term employment stability. Union-organized firms should invite labor officials to work along with company planners, personnel executives, and the workers themselves during change-over preparations, to soften all possible dislocations.

Smoothest transition can be made if regular employes can be readied for the new skilled jobs that are opening up, rather than having newcomers brought in. Thus far in automation, many employers have been amazed at the capabilities and adaptability of personnel who had been working on only one set job. Interested employes can often learn brand-new skills with surprisingly little delay or difficulty.

If Layoffs Are Necessary

Where actual layoffs are essential, wise employers will do everything possible to secure other jobs in the area for their men and women. Help can frequently be obtained from state and local employment services, business development groups, associates in similar lines of work, and new establishments in the territory. Also, the U.S. Employment Service is able to give tests that will reveal which employes are qualified for available openings in the vicinity. Those firms with substantial numbers of unusable workers can ask for government training programs as provided by the Manpower Development and Training Act.

Displaced employes should not be angry or discouraged by inevitable automation changes, but should take advantage of the many opportunities available for retraining and/or relocation. Those who have a healthy regard for progress and for the widening prosperity that technological advances can bring will not long be held back by necessary readjustments. Experience with automation thus far has proved that the transition usually can be made with far less economic unsettlement than was earlier thought possible.

What To Do When Your Heart Skips A Beat

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many people are aware that their heart skips a beat now and then. This is more likely to happen when resting and when the rate is slow. Premature contractions are of little consequence and so common that we might regard the irregularity as normal. The exception is when they follow a heart attack.

But they bother some and frighten others. The following letter is typical: "My sister has been plagued with skipped heart beats for many years. Lately they last longer and sometimes occur as often as four or five times a minute. Her heart feels as though it was going to stop. Her physician said not to worry."

We assume that her physician examined the heart and suggested an electrocardiogram. Premature contractions often are caused by an irritable or impatient heart muscle. Common causes include fatigue and overindulgence in tobacco, coffee, or tea. Drugs such as digitalis and epinephrine do the same. They occur when the beat is slow, such as when sitting or lying in bed.

Why does this irregularity produce the sensation that the old ticker is going to stop? This is best answered by describing what the physician hears with the stethoscope. The beats sound like this: Lub dub—lub dub—lub dub. Immediately following the last dub, a loud LUB DUB occurs followed by a lull that is much longer than that between the other beats. The ventricle acted as though it couldn't wait for the normal signal and contracted prematurely. But it does not disturb the basic rhythm of the heart because it takes a longer rest after the contraction. This long pause creates the feeling that the heart is going to stop. A longer stop may lead to dizziness, anxiety, and faintness. The normal beating following the premature contraction often is felt as a thump against the chest wall. The entire sequence of several in a row may cause feelings of fluttering, thumping, or skipped beats.

Drugs such as quinidine reduce the irritability. Walking about the room also helps by increasing the heart rate.

FOOT DISORDER

C. B. writes: The bone beneath my daughter's ankle is protruding, making her foot look ugly. I always have bought the best shoes for her. What do you think this could be?

REPLY

If the swelling is noticeable, X-ray is advised to determine whether the defect represents a growth.

EVE'S RIBS

Mrs. S. writes: I have a question that has puzzled me for years: Do women have more ribs than men?

Mrs. G. B. writes: Can prolonged grief cause heart trouble or other disease?

REPLY

There have been so many stories of the death of grief-stricken individuals that we cannot say it never occurs. Many of them are old and are victims of high blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, or angina pectoris —conditions that are aggravated by emotional disturbances. The will to live is an intangible and death occurs when it is lost.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the [illegible]tion of diseases will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Lewis E. Waterman, inventor of the fountain pen, began his career as an insurance salesman. As he recalls in his autobiography, his big moment of decision came the day he persuaded a client he had been besieging for weeks to take out a nice, fat policy. He placed it before his client, and took a fountain pen from his pocket. As he opened it, it began to leak and the ink spilled all over the contract. By the time Waterman had scurried back to his office for another pen, the client had changed his mind.

Waterman was so disgusted he gave up the insurance business then and there, and devoted the next year of his life to the development of a reliable fountain pen.

Two ladies were conversing on a hotel verandah. "Our doctor gave my poor Uncle Sam ten pills to take, four hours apart," mourned one, "but after taking only four of them, he died." "Terrible, terrible," agreed the friend, "but just think what might have happened to him if he'd taken all ten of them!"

Labor On The Skids

By John Crosby

LONDON

The rear windows of cars on London streets now bear mocking signs: "Don't blame Me. I Voted Conservative." Some of the bolder thinkers are already beginning to write Labor's obituary — not merely of this government but the party itself.

"There is now probably a better than even chance that this evanescent Labor government is approaching its quittance without having achieved anything much of value," writes the Economist, in what it admits is a fairly controversal opinion.

Nevertheless, the swing away from Labor of 10 per cent in the recent local elections was disastrously "large, national, consistent, and unmistakable." A similar swing in a Parliamentary general election would return the Conservatives to power with a larger majority than any government has enjoyed since the '30s.

A headline in the Daily Teiegraph says, "Surprise Fall In Output," over a story that industrial output fell in March for the second straight month, the worst fall since 1963. The only thing that surprises me about this is that anyone should be surprised.

The Labor government, which squeaked into office brandishing the words modernization and dynamism, has been from the outset most astoundingly undynamic and about as modern as 1880 when, it seems, most of its ideas first took root.

The Labor program, if it can be described as a program, has been protective, recessive, defensive, restrictive, deflationary, and pessimistic, when it should have been expansive, aggressive, and optimistic. While the U. S. economy reaches new heights by reducing taxes, the British Labor government raises taxes on just about everything and interest rates everywhere, and clamps down on investment which is the only way an economy can grow.

I'm particularly astounded and depressed by how reactionary this party is. The epithet once pinned on the Bourbons—they have forgotten nothing and learned nothing—is far more appropriate to Labor. Every other European Socialist party has abandoned nationalization as a very bad idea. Yet nationalization of steel, a step totally irrelevant to the British economy, was given top priority as a matter of party dogma, an exercise in self-indulgence.

Most of Labor's economic policies bear an astonishing resemblance to those of the Republican party under Herbert Hoover, which were such a wildly unsuccessful way to get out of the depression—austerity, higher credit rates, dearer money, economy, self-discipline, and the rest of that nonsense.

But in addition to all this economic malarkey, a strong streak of puritanism runs through many of Labor's policies, as a sort of emotional motivation. Recently the expense account, which here like everywhere else has been abused, was practically abolished. One got the clear impression that the Labor politicians wanted to do away with expense account luncheons, not to stop the drain on tax money but simply because they disapproved of a good lunch at the Savoy.

This same streak of puritanism runs through the Socialist intellectuals. Recently Paul Johnson in the New Statesman uttered a bleat of dismay at the British "renaissance" which has brought acclaim to Britain's pop singers and actors, and dress designers. Britain, he said, should be selling ships or computers or heavy electrical goods rather than "taking refuge in the luxury trades—whisky, high fashion, entertainment, tourism. Let's not kid ourselves about a renaissance. This is national senescence."

Except that it isn't. Johnson is apparently unaware that the world's most important commodity is not steel, oil, or cotton anymore. It's tourists who last year poured $90 billion into various countries and generated another $29 billion in wages, taxes, and purchases. Entertainment is very big business indeed. In fact, six British-made pictures (the James Bond films, "Lawrence of Arabia," the Beatles film, and "Tom Jones") earned as much as the whole British computer industry last year. High fashion is a huge business in America and could be here.

The trouble is all these things are fun and therefore, according to the Socialists, wrong. If the money isn't made deep down in the earth with a miner's lamp and isn't smelly and sweaty, then the Socialists don't believe it's important. The modern automated world where leisure is getting to be the biggest business of all the Socialists don't understand at all.

There's also, I'm afraid, a terrible streak of selfishness in this government. Labor has held down wages, raised taxes, discouraged profits, practically abolished free enterprise. But the first thing it did was to raise its own Parliamentary salaries.

We still haven't heard the results of that inter-collegiate turtle race held at California State College last week. But then, come to think of it, that figures.

Those London "pea soup" fogs are estimated to cost British industry about $5 million a day. Pretty expensive dish.

Allegany High Wins ACL Baseball Crown

Campers Grab Title With 7-1 Win Over Beall

LaSalle Knocks Bruce From Race, Valley 5-4 Victor

ACL STANDINGS

	W.	L.		W.	L.
Allegany	11	2	Ft. Hill	7	6
Bruce	9	4	LaSalle	6	7
Valley	9	4	Mt. Savage	3	10
Beall	7	6	Oldtown	0	13

The combination of Allegany's 7-1 win over Beall at Frostburg and Bruce's 4-2 loss to LaSalle at Municipal Field yesterday enabled Chet Payne's Campers to clinch the Allegany County Interscholastic Baseball League championship for 1965.

In other games played around the circuit, Valley rallied for three runs in the final inning to dump Fort Hill, 5-4, at Lonaconing; and Mt. Savage blanked Oldtown, 7-0, in a battle of the also-rans at 'Savage.

The ACL championship was the fourth in which the Campers have been involved. They won the flag outright with a 7-1 record in 1945 while playing under Walter L. Bowers. Roy Lester's 1954 team shared the title with LaSalle, both posting 13-2 slates.

Under Chet Payne, the Campers finished in a three-way tie for the lead in 1956 when Allegany, Fort Hill and Mt. Savage all had 11-3 marks. Payne is in his last year of coaching at Allegany, and thus closed out his tenure with his second title.

Dave Bruce Wins No. 3

Dave Bruce picked up the flag-clinching win for the Campobello crew yestedray by limiting Beall to five hits and striking out eight for his third win of the year against one loss. Phil Colosimo was the loser, setting his record at 2-2.

Bruce was Alco's leading hitter with two singles, while Steve Vandenberg had a three-bagger. Beall scored its only run in the seventh inning on Ronnie Ware's home run. Vic Ryan had a double for the Mountaineers.

LaSalle scored single runs in the third, fourth, fifth, and sixth innings to pull a come-from-behind win over the Bulldogs. They tied the count in the fourth inning when winning pitcher Jim Brannon reached base on an error at shortstop, and went around on two wild pitches and a grounder.

Score On Second Try

The Explorers went ahead in the fifth when Bob Seibert singled, went to second on a passed ball, and was out at the plate trying to score on Nick "Spunk" Perlozzo's double to left. However, Perlozzo arrived at third base on the play at the plate and scored on "Pooch" Femi's sacrifice fly.

Rip Coulehan almost needed an insurance policy himself in the sixth to score LaSalle's insurance run. He was hit by a pitch, stole second and third, and scored when the catcher's throw to the hot corner hit him and bounded away.

Brannon's win was his fourth in seven tries, while loser Leo Mazzone evened his record at 3-3. LaSalle's Bob Seibert, hitting over the .600 mark, increased his average with two hits in two trips. Gerald Miller had two hits, including a double, for the Bulldogs.

Tom Shockey Starts Rally

Valley went into the home half of the seventh in their game with Fort Hill, trailing 4-2. Tom Shockey started things off with a triple, and scored on Steve Walters' wild pitch.

Then Chuck Smith singled and, two force plays later, Gary Sloan was on first base with two outs and his team still down by a run. Sloan stole second and tied the ball game when Larry Suder singled. Suder likewise stole second and the game ended on Glenn Miller's base hit.

Charley Wamsley, 6-2 on the season, was the winning pitcher. Suder continued his torrid late-season batting pace with three hits in four trips to the plate, while Miller also had three-for-four. Ken Lancaster and Greg Getty each had two singles.

Mertens and Kimes Triple

Jim Mertens and Kimes had triples for Fort Hill.

Mt. Savage's sophomore right-hander, Gary O'Baker, hurled a three-hit shutout at Oldtown, which now has an 0-13 record. O'Baker struck out 13 Indians and walked a pair. Platt, the first of two Oldtown pitchers, was charged with the loss.

Mt. Savage's 11-hit attack was led by center fielder George Shaffer, who had a home run to left-center, a double, and two singles. Harvey had two hits, while Platt singled twice for the losers.

WHO ARE BASEBALL'S 700-GAME PITCHERS?

By BOB SUDYK

HOYT WILHELM appeared in his 700th game in the last week of the 1964 season and WARREN SPAHN hit his 711th at the same time with Milwaukee. In their appearances, Spahn started 635 and reliever Wilhelm only 52. The all-time record for games pitched is held by Cy Young, 906, and Walter Johnson, 802—the only two above the present-day pair.

Babe Crabtree, Turtle Slonaker Pitch Shutouts

Both Hurl 3-Hitters In City League Game

A pair of three-hit shutouts marked yesterday's action in the City Softball League as Jack's Auto City defeated the Old Germans at Taylor Field, 11-0, and Krampf's Barbershop crawled out of the cellar by topping the Old Exports, 7-0. The game between Queen City Electric and Sports Shoppe had been postponed.

Jack's won its third game in a row behind the slants of Babe Crabtree, who scored his sixth win of the year. He has lost twice. Crabtree struck out seven while getting the decision over Donnie Van Meter, who lost for the seventh time.

Jack's packed its eleven runs into the first two innings. Donnie Lewis was the big star with a three-run homer in the first and a grand-slammer in the second. Johnny Price had three singles and a triple, and Butch Cross had a single and a three-bagger.

For the Old Germans, Van Meter, Bridges, and Morgan got the singles, one each in the first, second, and third innings.

Turtle Slonaker struck out ten batters for Krampf's while leading them over the Old Exports. Slonaker has allowed just one run in his last two outings. Moe Barrett was the loser.

Krampf's piled up an awesome total of 15 hits, but didn't really sew up the game until they scored six runs in the sixth inning. John Chaney had a two-run homer in the big frame.

Speir had a single and two doubles for the winners; Buskirk, Albright, and Yost had two singles apiece; Willison had a single and a double; and Shonk had a double. Hank Page had two of the losers' three singles.

Pen-Mar Clubs List 10 Games In Three Days

Barton And Legion Tangle Here Today

Ten games in three days is the schedule for teams of the Pen-Mar Baseball League, commencing with a single contest today between Barton and the Cumberland American Legion at 2:30 o'clock at Municipal Field.

Barton is tied with the Hyndman Merchants for first place at the present time with a 5-1 record.

All of the teams will swing into action Sunday and eight of the ten teams are slated to play on Memorial Day, Monday.

Two of the five Sunday games will be staged in Cumberland. The Cumberland Hermans (4-2) will test Barton at Municipal Field while the Cumberland Merchants, now (1-5) will entertain Barrelville (1-5) at Taylor Field.

In other Sunday action, Frostburg (4-2) visits Keyser (3-3), Lonaconing (3-3) invades Mt. Savage (2-4) and the Cumberland Legion (2-4) tackles the Hyndman Merchants on the Pennsylvanians' home field.

On Monday, Lonaconing plays the Cumberland Merchants here, Hyndman hosts Mt. Savage, Keyser visits Barrelville and the Cumberland Hermans test the Frostburg Merchants in the Mountain City.

All league games are scheduled to start at 2:30 p.m.

Pirates Win 7th Straight

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Stargell's three-run homer off Warren Spahn capped an eight-inning rally that carried the streaking Pittsburgh Pirates to a 6-1 victory over the New York Mets Friday night.

The Pirates' seventh straight triumph lifted them out of last place in the National League and dropped the Mets into the cellar.

Stargell blasted his ninth homer after Bill Mazeroski's bases-loaded sacrifice fly snapped a 1-1 deadlock. All four runs in the eighth were unearned as a result of first baseman Jim Hickman's throwing error.

The big inning enabled Bob Veale to boost his record to 5-2.

33 Drivers Make Final Tests Today

"500" Race Opens Monday At Noon

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Dress rehearsal will be held Saturday for Monday's 500-mile Memorial Day classic, with all 33 starters expected to make final tests.

A three-hour period was set aside for carburetion and fuel tests, followed by another three hours of pit practice without engines running.

The 2½-mile track then will be closed until the flying start of the 49th annual "500" at noon (EDT) Monday.

The only other item of business on the pre-race agenda is the traditional drivers' meeting Sunday afternoon during which Speedway owner Tony Hulman and chief steward Harlan Fengler and their assistants will make their annual pleas for a safe race.

A change of the rules since last year's race which started tragically in the fiery deaths of Eddie Sachs and Dave MacDonald has taken most of the pressure out of pit stops.

The rules were amended to make two stops mandatory — at least for refueling. Pressurized refueling systems were outlawed, also for safety's sake. This means that refueling which normally took no more than 20 seconds will take at least a minute.

As a result, the average speed will suffer some, but most experts believe that the record of 147.350 miles per hour set by A. J. Foyt last year will be shattered.

Terps Threat To Villanova

Push 13 Individuals Into IC4A Finals

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — Sophomore Russ White's meet javelin record of 241 feet, ½ inch led a bulky Maryland advance through Friday's qualifying rounds and stamped the Terrapins a prime threat to Villanova's long-time dominance of the IC4A Outdoor Track and Field Championships.

Maryland, the Atlantic Coast Conference champion but never an IC4A titlist, pushed 13 individuals and a mile relay team through qualifying rounds and into Saturday's finals.

The Terrapins also have a man, Mike Cole, who survived first-round 220 eliminations and will run in Saturday's semis.

All finals, plus semifinals in the 220, will be held Saturday. Only qualifying events were held Friday.

Villanova, which has won the last five team titles and seven of the last nine, had nine individual qualifiers and a mile relay team.

Harvard, the Heptagonal champion, saw its long shot chances fade with only five qualifiers, including meet record-breaker John Bakkensen in the discus. Cornell had six but is not considered a serious threat in the meet that drew some 600 entrants from more than 50 eastern colleges.

Bakkensen, the defender, got off a throw of 173-8 and joined White as the only record-setters on the bright, sunny afternoon that drew only about 100 spectators to Rutgers Stadium.

Calvary Methodist Wins 3rd Straight Inter-Church Game

Calvary Methodist won its third game in a row yesterday when defeating Second Baptist, 4-1, in an Inter-Church Softball League game at Rolling Mill Field.

Calvary lost only its opening game of the year. Second Baptist now has an 0-3 record. Riggleman starred for the winners by hitting a home run and playing a good game in the short field. Bowers had a triple and Carr nailed two singles.

Second Baptist managed only one run despite eleven singles. C. Detrick, G. Hoyle, and L. Sibler had two hits apiece.

Southern Beats Bayard, Nears PVC Championship

Control Artist Martin Hurls Highlanders To 7th Circuit Win

Bill Martin, a sophomore right-hander with phenomenal control, pitched Southern to its eighth win of the year in nine games yesterday at Oakland in an 8-3 make-up game with Bayard, moving them to within striking distance of the Potomac Valley Conference championship.

The Highlanders, now 7-0 in the P. V. C. have three games left on their schedule—all in the conference. They are scheduled to play Beall at Frostburg this coming Wednesday, with the dangerous Mountaineers visiting Oakland two days later. The other remaining game is a make-up contest with Keyser.

Anxiously awaiting the outcome of these remaining games will be Petersburg, once considered a cinch for the title. Petersburg, which has concluded its P. V. C. ledger, lost its last game of the year to Moorefield and has a 9-1 record. Should Southern win the remainder of their contests, the Highlanders would, of course, win the title outright. If Southern plays its final three games and loses one, they will share the crown with the Vikings.

If Southern loses two games, Petersburg will wear the P.V.C. championship toga.

Martin hurled a three-hitter at winless Bayard yesterday, recording his fourth win against one loss. He struck out six and, as usual, walked nobody. Martin, Southern's mainstay on the mound, has walked only one player all season.

The game was played in cold weather, and a strong wind helped Martin by holding up three long fly balls which otherwise would have gone for extra base hits. As it was, Southern shortstop Terry Imhoff was the only player with two hits, one of them a triple.

Kirkwood's 139 Leads In "500"

Five Trailing "Joe Palooka" By Stroke

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI)— Joe Kirkwood Jr., the famed "Joe Palooka" of the movies, bested blustery winds Friday for his second sub-par round and took the lead at the halfway mark of the "500" Festival Golf Tourney with a three-under par 139.

Kirkwood, a husky Californian who hasn't played on the full PGA tour since 1951 when he won the Blue Ribbon Open, added a 70 to Thursday's 69 for a one-stroke margin over the field.

Scores of 148, six over par, were good enough to make the cut-off for the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday in the sixth annual tourney which has a price tag of $87,000.

Chasing Kirkwood in second place with 140 were five contenders for first place money, including two-time winner Doug Ford and Lionel Hebert, who had Friday's best round, a three under par 68.

Also at 140 were Miller Barber, Chi Chi Rodriguez and Dan Sikes.

All told, only 17 players equalled or bettered par on another windy and chilly day.

Nine players tied at 141, including first-day leader Tommy Bolt, Art Wall, former winner Dow Finsterwald and Australia's Bruce Crampton. Only two others, Tom Weiskopf and Don Fairfield, posted par 142's.

Martinsburg High Wins Region 4 Baseball Title

Tops Petersburg, 6-1, Earns State Berth; Smallwood Fans 15

Wallace "Junior" Smallwood, hard-throwing righthander, fired a 3-hitter and mowed down 15 via the strikeout route as he hurled Coach John Cole's Martinsburg High School Bulldogs to a 6-1 victory over the Petersburg High School Vikings yesterday at Stayman Field, Keyser.

The victory gave Martinsburg the West Virginia Region Four championship and advanced the Bulldogs into the state championship tournament at Parkersburg, Thursday and Friday, June 3-4.

Roy Harman started on the mound for the Vikings and suffered his second loss against nine wins. Dave Shahan finished on the rubber for the Vikings. Martinsburg collected nine hits. The loss gave Petersburg an overall record of 10-2 for the season. Martinsburg has won ten games and lost four.

Petersburg advanced to the regional final by defeating Keyser, 6-0. Martinsburg shut out Shepherdstown, 2-0, to earn the right to play Petersburg.

McGuire's, Blank's To Play For Title

McGuire's Tavern, Frostburg, and Art Blank's Tavern, Zihlman, will battle it out next week for the championship of the Allegany County Women's Shuffleboard League after eliminating Galen's Bar and the Corriganville Firettes, respectively, in series concluded last night.

McGuire's whipped Galen's on the McGuire boards last night, 95-50, after Galen's had gone into the last three games with a 10-point lead. The Frostburg team won the series by a 35-point margin, 163-128.

Peggy Hess had 26 points for McGuire's while Ruth Twigg's 14 was best for Galen's.

Art Blank's Tavern, although defeated at Corriganville by 7 points last night, 64-57, won the series by the margin of 34 points, 151-117. Louise Morgan's 23 was tops for the Corriganville Firettes and Ann Ruth Winfield paced Blank's with 18 tallies.

Art Blank's represents the league's American Division and McGuire's the National Division.

Twins Beat Nats, Tony Oliva Stars

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Tony Oliva hit his ninth home run and drove in three runs Friday night to spark the Minnesota Twins to a 4-1 victory over the Washington Senators.

The second game of a scheduled doubleheader was rained out.

Oliva, last year's American League batting champ, entered the contest with a .237 average. He collected a run-scoring single as well as his homer in four trips to boost his RBI total to 30.

Card of Thanks

We wish to extend our thanks and appreciation to all our friends and former neighbors of Frostburg, Md., who so generously offered assistance to us upon the death of our beloved husband and dear father, Owen C. McAteer. Special thanks to the pallbearers, those who donated the use of cars, floral tributes and Mass cards. To the Rev. Father Francis Montgomery and the Rev. Father Kersch of St. Michael's Parish for their prayers and spiritual comfort.
Mrs. Owen C. McAteer and Children

In Memoriam

In memory of Mrs. Amanda Rinker, who died May 29, 1964.
What would I give to clasp your hand,
Your happy face to see
To hear your voice and see your smile,
That meant so much to me.
Sadly missed by her Daughter and Son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Henderson.

In loving memory of our Mother, Elizabeth E. Eyler, who passed away 20 years ago May 29, 1945 and our Father, George A. Eyler, who passed away 34 years ago August 15, 1931.
Many years have gone
Since you passed away.
We think about you often
As we go through our day.
Your loving care and guidance
Made us feel this way.
Sadly missed by their children

Local Youth Is Wounded In Viet Nam

Was Star Athlete At LaSalle High

McELFISH

An area youth who was an outstanding football player at LaSalle High School several years ago was wounded Thursday while serving with the U. S. Army in Viet Nam.

Pfc. Michael T. (Terry) McElfish, 20-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony T. McElfish, received metal fragments in his leg above the knee, according to a telegram received last night by his parents who reside at RD 2, Flintstone.

Mr. and Mrs. McElfish said the telegram informed them their son was wounded by a grenade thrown by the Viet Cong and that he was being held at a clearing station at Vung Tau.

Pfc. McElfish is a 1963 graduate of LaSalle High School and enlisted in the Army in September 1963. He is presently serving as a paratrooper with the 173d Airborne Division. He had been stationed on Okinawa for a year before being sent to Viet Nam.

While at LaSalle he was an outstanding football player and was named to the All-City Teams for two years. He also was selected as the most valuable football player at LaSalle for 1963.

He also had been playing football while in the service and was named to the all-star team on Okinawa while playing with the Army Rangers.

Pa. Motorist Killed Near Manns Choice

A 44-year-old McKeesport, Pa. man was killed yesterday morning when his car careened off Pennsylvania Route 31 west of Manns Choice and plunged into the Juniata River.

The victim was identified as Karl Oeler, according to state police, who said the accident occurred at 7:35 a.m. (EST) about four and seven tenths miles west of Manns Choice.

They said the man was driving westbound and was traveling on a downgrade of a straight section of road.

The car which apparently was traveling at an excessive rate of speed careened off to the berm of the highway, hit the end of a concrete bridge and plunged into the Raystown Branch of the Juniata River in Bedford County.

Pastor's Father To Speak Here

Rev. Elmer A. Reno, father of Rev. Ramon F. Reno, pastor of Park Place Methodist Church, LaVale, will be the guest speaker at services tomorrow at the LaVale church.

Rev. Mr. Reno's sermon topic will be "The Sweetest and Bitterest Word in the Bible." The senior and junior choirs also will sing during the services.

Rev. Mr. Reno resides in Colesville, Md., and is an electrical engineer for the U.S. Coast Guard. He is one of the few engineers who has earned the rating of lighthouse engineer.

He is an approved supply pastor of the Methodist Church and served as pastor of the Seat Pleasant Methodist Church for five years.

His son is completing his second year as pastor of Park Place Church.

Board Gets Complaints On Condition Of Roads

Two communications involving county roads were received by the Board of County Commissioners which met yesterday at the Court House.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Buser, Oldtown, requested that something be done to alleviate a bad condition on Town Creek Road.

They said the dirt portion of the road is in deplorable condition and chuck holes and rocky ridges are so numerous it is impossible to miss them "unless you ride a bicycle."

The couple requests that the road be graded and dust-control treated. The matter was referred to Harry T. Skelly, supervisor of county roads.

In the other communication, Mrs. Franklin Shumaker, 239 Shaw Street, Frostburg, complained about oil being put on the street.

She feels there should be some alternative to oiling the road such as tarring and chipping as was done on Armstrong Avenue. The matter was referred to the roads department.

The commissioners received a letter from Raymond W. Creek, Little Orleans, thanking them for paying Blue Cross and Blue Shield for retired employes.

The board also received an invitation to attend a testimonial dinner honoring Miss Lula Blonsky, retiring principal of Pennsylvania Avenue School on Saturday, June 5 at St. Luke's Lutheran Church, Frederick Street.

Pony Cart In Pageant

This colorful pony cart was featured in the May Day pageant yesterday at Short Gap (W. Va.) Elementary School. Seated in the cart are Debra Mullin, May queen; Glenna Ours, owner of the pony and the driver, and Michael Morris, the May king. The pageant, entitled "Jolly Holiday," featured music from the recent movie, "Mary Poppins." The king and queen, both sixth graders, were chosen on the basis of their scholastic ability and popularity.

JOHN C. AGATHON

211 Seniors To Graduate At Beall High

John C. Agathon, industrial relations manager at the Amcelle plant of Celanese Fibers Company, will be guest speaker during the commencement exercises of Beall High School on June 9 at 8 p.m. in the auditorium.

Mrs. May B. Bolt, vice president of the Allegany County Board of Education, will present diplomas to seniors. There are 211 candidates for graduation.

Presiding at the commencement exercises will be Joseph H. Pellerzi, principal.

Mr. Agathon who has held his present position at the Amcelle plant since August of 1962 is a 1948 graduate of Cornell University's School of Industrial and Labor Relations with a BS degree.

After attending Columbia University, he was a member of the evening college staff at Rutgers University where he taught undergraduate courses in industrial relations for two years.

His experience in industry began at Botany Mills, Passaic, N. J. where for several years he was responsible for union relations at the division level for the company.

Subsequent positions included division personnel manager of the Grand Union Company, a retail food chain with over 500 stores in the East; and personnel manager and corporate director of personnel and labor relations for other food companies with plants and sales in domestic and international markets.

His professional activities and associations have included Cornell University's Industrial Relations Alumni, American Society for Personnel Administration, and New York Personnel Management Association.

Mr. Agathon is a veteran of World War II having served as a squadron navigator in the Mediterranean Theatre.

He is a member of Emmanuel Episcopal Church; on the executive and industrial relations committee of the Chamber of Commerce; the advisory board of the Salvation Army, of which he is vice chairman; and the County United Fund.

Rep. Mathias To Speak At Annual Scout Dinner

CHARLES M. MATHIAS

Congressman Charles McM. Mathias Jr. will be the featured speaker at the annual recognition dinner of Nemacolin Trail District of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts, here next month.

The annual dinner will be held Tuesday, June 15, at 6:15 p. m. in Asbury Hall of Centre Street Methodist Church.

The covered dish dinner also will feature the presentation of training awards, installation of officers and special recognition awards.

Adult leaders from the 53 units and parents of all the boys in the scout district are invited to attend the event. Each unit is asked to make its reservations with Mrs. Edward V. Dove, RD 3, Bedford Road, no later than May 22.

Mr. Mathias is completing his third term in the House of Representatives from Maryland's Sixth Congressional District and is presently serving on the House Judiciary and District of Columbia committees.

A native of Frederick, Mr. Mathias is a graduate of Yale University. His education was interrupted during World War II when he served as a gunnery officer in the Navy in the Pacific. He received his law degree from the University of Maryland in 1949.

Prior to his election in November 1960, Mr. Mathias served in the Maryland House of Delegates, was an assistant to the attorney general of Maryland and was active in Republican politics in Frederick County.

He has served as an officer of the Children's Aid Society of Frederick County, trustee of the Episcopal Free School and Orphan House, vestryman of Frederick's All Saints Episcopal Church, president of Frederick's Historical Society and is a member of the executive of the Maryland Civil War Centennial Commission.

Mr. Mathias is married to the former Ann Hickling, of Cambridge, Mass., and they have two sons, Charlie, 5, and Robbie, 3.

Memorial Day Program Set Tomorrow

Cumberland will mark the observance of Memorial Day with a parade and memorial program tomorrow afternoon.

Veterans' groups will join in sponsoring the activities which will conclude at the Soldiers' Monument in Rose Hill Cemetery.

The parade will form at 2 p.m. at the old State Armory building on South Centre Street and march over downtown streets to the cemetery for the program at 2:30 p.m.

Principal speaker for the program at the cemetery will be retired Air Force General Robert E. L. Eaton of Chevy Chase.

Summer Theatre Opens Today

The Mountain Playhouse at Jennerstown, Pa., will open its summer season today at 8 p. m. with "Mary, Mary" a long running Broadway comedy hit.

Brandy Carson will appear in the starring roll as "Mary".

There will be a matinee on Memorial Day at 2 p. m. and every Friday during the season.

Births

Lt. and Mrs. Bruce A. Smith Hamilton Air Force Base, Nov.-Calif., announce the birth of a daughter there Thursday. The mother is the former Gail Garlitz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Garlitz, 603 St. Marys' Avenue. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. William A Smith, 53½ Louisiana Avenue.

Property Sale Order Upheld By High Court

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Maryland Court of Appeals ruled Friday that Allegany County Circuit Court acted correctly in ordering the sale of property owned by Clarence T. Porter and Viola Porter of Allegany County.

Judge Harold E. Naughton ordered the sale at the request of Mrs. Porter after she was divorced from her husband. The property consisted of a lot in Eckhart, Md., and a three-room house.

Porter, who argued his own case in both courts, claimed that he should have been granted a change of venue to Frederick County and that his constitutional rights had been violated by the sale of the property.

He contended that the divorce, on which the property sale was predicated, was not legal.

The high court said it found "all of his claims frivlous and without merit."

Porter had spent 20 months in Allegany County Jail for refusing to abide by the terms of the divorce given Mrs. Porter in 1955.

Burial Park Manager Faces Criminal Counts

Vets' Groups Say Markers Removed

The manager of Hillcrest Burial Park yesterday was charged with three counts of removing and destroying grave markers.

Raymond G. Wise, 40, of Bowman's Addition, manager of the burial park, was released in the custody of his attorney, William R. Carscaden, for a hearing next week in Trial Magistrate Court.

Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt issued three warrants against Wise yesterday afternoon after hearing from officials of two local service organizations that markers on graves of veterans had been removed.

The case developed Thursday evening when several members of Cumberland Typographical Union 244 went to Hillcrest Burial Park to place flowers on the graves of several former members and found the metal grave markers missing.

Officials of Henry Hart Post 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion, also found that their grave markers had been removed from the cemetery. The Police and Firemen's Welfare Association also reported missing grave markers.

Warrants against Wise were obtained by John J. Jackle, commander of Henry Hart Post, VFW; Charles E. Griffith, commander of the local legion post, and Albert Kerns Jr., a member of the legion.

The charge is an unusual one but carries a stiff penalty upon conviction. Persons convicted of removing or destroying grave markers may receive a maximum $1,000 fine or two years in jail or both.

Mrs. Lowndes' Portrait Hung At History House

A portrait of Mrs. Lloyd Lowndes, wife of the only Allegany County man ever elected Governor of Maryland, was hung yesterday at the Historical Society headquarters, 218 Washington Street.

Mrs. William L. Wilson, president of the society, said last night that the general public will have its first opportunity to see the portrait between 2 and 4 p.m. Sunday when the history house has its first open house of the season.

Some seven rooms of the house have been refurnished since last fall. Mrs. Emma Everstine and Mrs. Veronica Schliefman are co-chairmen of the society's hostess committee. Plans call for the house to be open each Sunday from 2 until 4 p.m. through Labor Day.

Plant Names Accountant

Robert B. Mangum has been named plant accountant at the Amcelle plant of Celanese Fibers Company, according to Louis Amato, plant manager.

Mr. Mangum replaces Byron Dame, who was recently transferred to Charlotte, N. C.

Mr. Mangum joined Celanese in January 1965 at the Charlotte headquarters. Prior to that time, he was employed as general manager of the Hickory Springs Manufacturing Company, Fort Smith, Ark.

He received a B.S. degree in accounting from the University of North Carolina, and is a member of the National Association of Accountants and the Kiwanis Club of Cumberland.

Mr. Mangum and his wife and two children reside in Frostburg.

Featured Performers

Nancy Smith, left, and Debbie Shryock, majorettes with the Fort Hill High School Junior Band, and members of the Cumberland Twirling Corps, will be featured performers in the variety show planned Sunday at 7 p.m. in the amphitheatre of Constitution Park. The show will climax the traditional Memorial Day opening of the park. Dancers, twirlers, vocal music and the Gentlemen of Note dance orchestra, directed by E. W. (Ace) Humbertson, will be other highlights.

Older Residents Will Get Break On Income Tax

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Two new laws which will give an income tax break to Maryland's older residents, and those who support them, will take effect next Tuesday.

One removes the limit on medical expenses that can be deducted for a person 65 or older. It is designed primarily to benefit taxpayers supporting an older person in a nursing home.

Under present law, the limit on medical expenses for state purposes is $1,250 for a single taxpayer and $2,500 for a married couple. There will be no medical limit under the new law for taxpayers 65 or over, or for those who have a dependent 65 or over. Medical expenses for the younger taxpayer's other dependents also will be included in the unlimited total.

Excludes $1,200

The other new act excludes from gross income any retirement pay up to $1,200 — whether from an annuity or a private or governmental retirement system — for persons 65 or over.

It is designed primarily for retired persons who don't receive social security or who receive less than $1,200 a year in social security. At present only social security income is tax free.

In the case of persons who receive retirement income and social security, the exclusion must be reduced by the amount of social security received. If a taxpayer already receives $1,200 in social security, it will offset the total amount to be allowed and there will be no advantage for him under the new law.

Won't Hurt State

Benjamin F. Marsh, chief of the State Income Tax Division, said Friday that the change will be sufficient to remove a number of older taxpayers on limited income from having to pay any state tax, but that the figure will not have any appreciable affect on state revenues.

The comptroller's office supported both bills at the 1965 Maryland Legislature and urged Gov. Tawes sign them. Both will

CD Report Is Given

In a letter to the Alegany County Board of Commissioners, Charles G. Smith, director of the Civil Defense program in the county, reported that two additional 200-bed mobile home hospital units have been received and an additional unit scheduled for next year will give the county a 1,000-bed hospital.

Civil Defense expenditures for March and April were outlined in the communication to the commissioners.

Mr. Smith said an auditor from the Secretary of the Army office spent a week here auditing the CD accounts for the past three years. He remarked on the splendid cooperation given by Mrs. Johanna N. Sills, county auditor, and the efficient system of accounting in the county.

Mr. Smith also reported that a Captain Crowley of the Department of Defense and William Chenowith, Maryland Surplus Property Department, inspected the CD property in the county.

Dr. Bonner Leaves Hercules

Dr. Lyman G. Bonner, technical director at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory from 1944 to 1955, has resigned from Hercules Powder Company to accept a position as director of foundation relations for California Institute of Technology.

A pioneer in the solid propellant industry, Dr. Bonner had been director of development for the Hercules Explosives and Chemical Propulsion Department. He will continue to serve in the capacity of a consultant for Hercules while performing his new duties at Cal Tech.

A graduate of the University of Utah, he received his Ph.D. in chemistry from Cal Tech in 1935. While at ABL, Dr. Bonner directed the development of many of the solid-propellant motors used in today's missile systems.

To Elect Officers

Fort Hill Band Parents Club will elect officers at a meeting June 1 at 7:30 in the school.

Non-Group Rate To Be Boosted By Blue Cross

Sears Cites Cost Reducing Program

By LOUIS G. PANOS

BALTIMORE (AP) — Maryland Blue Cross got permission Friday to raise its non-group rates by $1.10 a month for family coverage and 30 cents for individual coverage.

Insurance Commissioner F. Douglass Sears, in approving the increases effective July 1, made several recommendations aimed at slowing the upward spiral of hospital costs, upon which Blue Cross rates are based.

Sears' order will enable the non-profit hospitalization insurance plan to begin charging $6.50 a month for individual coverate and $13.60 for family coverage.

Blue Cross had asked for permission to raise individual policies by 74 cents to $6.94 and family policies by $1.46 to $13.97.

The increases will not apply to holders of group policies, who outnumber non-group subscribers 350,000 to 135,000.

Wants Sears Fired

Reginald H. Dabney, executive director of Blue Cross, said the estimated $1.1 million more produced annually by the increases probably would not prevent "continued substantial deficits" in non-group coverage.

"We will, however, do our utmost to make ends meet as long as possible with the rates authorized by the department," said Dabney.

Baltimore City Comptroller Hyman A. Pressman, who had opposed the Blue Cross request at a May 14 public hearing, said the higher rates are "completely unjustified." He repeated earlier demands that Sears be fired.

"Commissioner Sears fumbled a beautiful opportunity to force the hospitals to effect economies by flatly denying any increase," Pressman said.

"One thing is perfectly clear to me — we need a new insurance commissioner and we need one badly. It is amazing that Gov. Tawes did not awaken to this fact a long time ago."

Cites Report

The difference between its receipts and expenses on non-group policies, Blue Cross said, has been met by withdrawals from its reserves and the surplus from its group-coverage operations. But reserves had been drained by $2.8 million in recent years and had dropped to a dangerously low $1.8 million as of last March 31, officials of the plan said.

Pressman replied that the reserves actually had risen from $1.1 million to $1.8 million since a 1963 rate increase granted Blue Cross. This showed a profitable operation under the present rates and no need for any increase, he said.

Commenting on this in his approval order, Sears said reserves still were "relatively low."

"Of the 17 other (state) Blue Cross plans of comparable size, only three have a lower reserve ration," he said.

The commissioner also referred to a report by a governor's commission on hospital costs and its prediction that costs can be expected to continue upward, primarily because of rising wages and more complex techniques in treatment.

But he noted, too, that the commission had recommended steps to slow the rise in hospital costs, which last year reached an average of $38.59 per patient day.

Denies Full Boost

These recommendations included joint purchasing agreements by hospitals, relieving hospitals of costs for training nurses and technicians, increasing state contributions for the care of indigent patients, and public support of stand-by hospital facilities.

Because some of these recommendations might be applied and thereby reduce hospital costs, said Sears, he denied Blue Cross the entire increase requested and reduced it to "the minimum level consistent with safety."

The commissioner also urged the creation of a State council for hospital affairs to help plan new hospital expansion and construction and prevent costly overlapping of facilities.

"This might be done, for example, by requiring a favorable report by the council as a condition for the granting of a license by the State Health Department," he said.

Representatives Discuss Court Reporting

Some guide lines for reporting state and county criminal and civil court proceedings in compliance with recent Supreme Court decisions were provided at a dinner meeting at the Cumberland Country Club attended by judges, attorneys, city and county legal officers and newspapermen. Seated, left to right, are William R. Carscaden, president of the Allegany County Bar Association; Associate Judge Harold E. Naughton, T. Donald Shires, managing editor of the Cumberland Evening and Sunday Times; Associate Judge James S. Getty, William H. Geppert, local attorney, and William C. Walsh, former attorney general of Maryland and former Circuit Court judge. Standing, same order, are Albert D. Darby, court reporter for the Cumberland News; Bernard E. Sitter, managing editor of the Cumberland News; City Attorney Hugh A. McMullen, State's Attorney Donald W. Mason, C. Arthur Lancaster, assistant managing editor of the Evening and Sunday Times, and J. Frederick Sharer, assistant state's attorney.

Jane Fonda Has Role In 'Cat Ballou'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — With pouty face, long, taffy-hued tresses and hip-hugging pants, she looked like the latest movie star from France as she strolled down the steps to the Beverly Hills Hotel pool.

But when she spoke, the tones were not Left Bank but Eastern U.S. finishing school. She is Jane Fonda, daughter of that most American of film stars, Henry Fonda.

The French influence is no doubt the result of Jane's romance with the French people and, on a more personal basis, with Roger Vadim, the mentor and one-time husband of Brigitte Bardot. He has been visiting Jane here.

The second-generation actress, on a day off from the Marlon Brando film "The Chase," took a poolside table and talked about such things as France and being a second-generation actress.

If anything can improve our relations with France, perhaps it can be Jane. Reports from Paris indicate that she has been as well received as any American since Ben Franklin — well, Eddie Constantine, anyway.

"It's very simple: my father," she replied. "I knew he was popular, but I never realized what a hold he had on Europeans. He is loved everywhere, even in Russia, where 'War and Peace' and 'Grapes of Wrath' were very popular. They love him in France and other countries because he made social pictures.

"That admiration was naturally transferred to me. And I couldn't be more grateful."

Jane admitted there might be other elements as well, such as the fact that she didn't just pass through France. She stayed. She not only established herself in a Paris apartment; she bought a farm 45 minutes from the city and converted it to a home for herself. She still has both — as well as her own New York apartment and a rented house at Malibu.

"But I'm not an expatriate by any means," she added. "I still am very much American and will stay that way."

La Fonda made two pictures in France, but it remained for a basic American horse opera to shift her career into high gear. She stars in "Cat Ballou," a raucous, rip-snorting Western that has drawn as many critical huzzahs as any film in 1965 so far.

"It's quite a new experience for me," said Jane. "I've been in films that made money but got poor reviews. I've been in films that got good reviews but weren't well received. This is the first time I seem to be in a picture that gets both.

"I'm still a bit amazed. None of us thought the script offered much, and we weren't sure what we had when we finished. The picture only lasted 28 days. Apparently it has a quality that will pay off."

So does Jane Fonda, apparently. She is carving her own career without fighting the fact that she is daughter of a star. Far from it.

"Being Henry Fonda's daughter has done me nothing but good in this business," she declared. "I couldn't be more grateful."

TV CAMEOS: Alice Pearce

Her Life Is Filled With Sorcery

By ED MISURELL

Comedienne Alice Pearce will be the first to admit it. She's come full circle in TV since she made her debut in the medium back in 1946. Way out things happened to her on that first appearance and they are still occurring these days on ABC's "Bewitched."

As Gladys Kravitz in the popular series, Alice plays a hapless housewife with a beautiful witch for a next door neighbor. As such, she is frequently the harassed butt of Elizabeth Montgomery's comedic sorcery.

"Those special effects men can come up with an awful lot of tricks to play on me," she said recently during a visit to New York. "Still they're a lot nicer than the experience I went through the first time I ever did a television show.

"It was late in 1946," Alice related, "and I was one of a group taking part in a closed circuit telecast of a fashion show. Things were pretty primitive then and called for the use of a number of huge lights. They were so hot you could only work under them for about five minutes at a time. We were given salt pills — ugh — to overcome their enervating effects.

"I had on a dress with plastic buttons and my appearances had to be cut short when the lights finally melted the buttons. I can honestly say I've never worked under such difficult conditions."

Her present chores, added the comedienne, are performed under much happier circumstances. "I was originally hired to do but two of the early segments of 'Bewitched' as the wife of actor George Tobias. The producers liked what we did, apparently, and we were signed for further episodes. To date, I've appeared in about 16 shows.

Comedienne Alice Pearce and her real life husband, Paul Davis, enjoy a laugh during a shooting break on a "Bewitched" set.

"Now I'm under contract for five years to Columbia Pictures, which is the parent company of Screen Gems, the producers of 'Bewitched.' I love working in TV regularly for I find it just as stimulating as the stage because I still have a lot to learn about it."

In addition to performing in the series, Alice also appears in some of the auto commercials made by the firm that sponsors the show. Viewers will remember her in many other commercials she has made through the years. Particularly popular were two she made for a toothpaste company.

Discussing her career, Alice said she got hooked by the lure of acting at a very early age. The only child of Robert E. Pearce, a National City Bank vice president, she was taken to Europe by her parents when she was 18 months old. During the next 13 years, they lived in such cities as Brussels, Antwerp, Rome and Paris.

"I can't remember when I wasn't appearing in school plays," Alice said. "We returned to the U. S. when I was 15 and studied painting and other subjects at the Master's School in Dobbs Ferry, N. Y. Then I went to Sarah Lawrence." While studying for her B.A. degree, she continued to work with the Princeton University theater group.

When she told her parents after college that she intended to become an actress they weren't too pleased about it. "They knew so little about the theater at the time," she said, "that they were wary about it and hoped I might express a desire to do something else."

Like many others, Alice found Broadway was not waiting with open arms for her when she began to make the theatrical rounds. At one point, she supported herself by selling bloomers at Macy's department store. Following appearances in summer stock, she finally won a Broadway role and debuted in "On the Town." She repeated her part later in the movie version.

From that point on, Alice racked up many credits in comedy roles on the stage, screen and many of the top television shows. While appearing in "Bells Are Ringing" she met stage manager Paul Davis. They were married in 1964. Presently she owns an art gallery and shop in Los Angeles where a number of Alice's paintings are hung.

As to the future, Alice is happily and speculatively bewitched by what those special effects men have in store for her in forthcoming episodes of "Bewitched."

How's Sally Ann Howes?

BY JOAN CROSBY

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Sally Ann Howes has just had the shock of her young life!

She accepted jobs as hostess-entertainer for two upcoming beauty pageants on CBS television, Miss U.S.A., set for June 4 and Miss Universe, scheduled for July 24. "and I thought," the beautiful English star smiled, "I'm getting all this money for nothing. Well, it's not so. It's the most technically difficult show I have ever been connected with.

"You should see my script, it's this high"—and she spread her hands a foot apart—"and there are several endings for everything in case the judges take longer to decide than expected or someone faints. And I have to wear one of those earpieces, so that I can hear instructions. I would much rather have someone hand me a note, so I could read it on camera and relay the information. With that earpiece, I'm afraid people will think I am deaf."

Sally Ann reports that for the first time, there will be different sets for the bathing suit and evening gown parades, and professional entertainment from her and Pat Boone.

Happy, humorous, friendly Sally Ann recently left the cast of the Broadway musical "What Makes Sammy Run?" after appearing in it for a year. "I immediately did everything possible to change my 'Sammy' image. I cut my hair, splurged on clothes, some of which I haven't worn yet, and changed my makeup. I decided I had been much too pink."

Married to producer-composer Richard Adler, Sally Ann hopes to retire and be just Mrs. Adler in a few years. "But nobody believes me when I say this. In about 10 years, I wouldn't mind retiring. I don't want to see myself as an aging actress trying to make the adjustment to mother roles. I suppose I have this feeling because I saw my father (English musical comedy star Bobby Howes) making the adjustment. It's fine to say now that I will give myself 10 years, but we never can predict how we will feel when the time comes. I don't know how well I will have fulfilled my needs by then."

HOWES: Too much pink?

Theater Award Honors Paper's Drama Critic

DENVER (AP) — An annual award for theatrical achievement is being set up in memory of Larry Tajiri, drama editor of the Denver Post who died Feb. 12.

The Tajiri citation is limited to recipients in five states—Colorado, Wyoming, Montana, Utah and New Mexico. It is to be made for significant contribution to dramatic or operatic productions. The medallion is being designed by the late writer's brother, Shinkichi Tajiri, a Minneapolis sculptor.

'Buried Alive' Used For Show

LONDON (AP) — Keith Waterhouse and Willis Hall are writing "The Great Adventure," a musical which New York's Theater Guild plans to present on Broadway.

The show, based upon Arnold Bennett's story "Buried Alive," is to have a score by Julie Styne and E. Y. Harburg, be directed by Peter Wood. Waterhouse and Hall were represented off-Broadway this season with "Billy Liar."

'Sound Of Music' Dubbing Costly

LONDON (AP) — Twentieth Century Fox says it is spending a half million dollars to dub all the songs in the film version of "The Sound of Music" into four languages. The languages are French, German, Spanish and Italian.

In the past, songs in musicals have usually been retained in the original language, sometimes with translated subtitles.

Actor Seeks Rich Parts---Not Riches

By DICK KLEINER
Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)

Fame and fortune, to Christopher Plummer, are not enough. He is one of those increasingly rare actors who would rather have a rich part than just be rich.

And so, once again, he is turning his broad back on Hollywood, just when he could, if he chose, wrap this town up and put it in his safety deposit vault.

After his lead opposite Julie Andrews in "The Sound of Music" and his just-finished starring role with Natalie Wood in "Inside Daisy Clover," he is on the threshold of movie greatness.

But he has decided to leave, to go to England and do a limited engagement in "Peer Gynt" on the London stage and then see what develops.

It has been this way since he was in his 20s. Then, as a brilliantly promising Canadian actor, he had several Hollywood offers. He turned them all down, without batting a blank check.

"I reached a decision early in my career," Plummer says, "that I would stay with the stage in my 20s. I decided to limber up on the classics. When I finally accepted a film offer, in my 30s, I had enough experience.

"I remember once meeting Gerald Philippe, who told me that he had made a great mistake in accepting a movie offer when he was quite young.

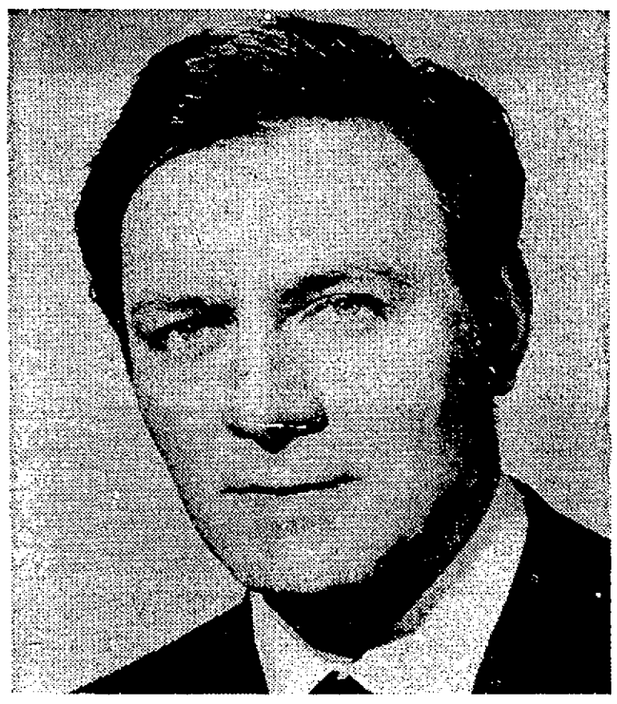
"I never regretted my decision."

HOW MUCH MONEY THAT DECISION COST him is incalculable. To most young men the thought of that kind of money would be unbearable; it would be enough to make them forget their ideals. But Plummer has always been dedicated to the pure in the theater.

In fact, he is almost convinced that his love of the classics is an indication that he is a reincarnated 19th century man.

Of course, Plummer likes money — at least, he likes to live well. He always has; his childhood was spent in a well-to-do home in Montreal.

"I really don't need very much," he says. "Just enough so I can have a nice house in London and a small place in the south of France."



Christopher Plummer

These basic needs have been fulfilled. He has the house in London — a lovely old place, within walking distance of Mayfair and the theaters — and the small place in the south of France.

AND SO, WITH THAT OUT OF THE WAY, he can devote himself to the pursuit of art, not cash. He feels that the money marathon is one reason American actors are not as good as English actors today.

"American actors are spoiled," he says. "They have too much money and not enough experience. In America, an actor can do one part and get his name above the title. They aren't forced to do many things first, so they never get the experience they need.

"Most American actors try to act like businessmen — which, indeed, they are."

This last trait, Plummer believes, accounts for the lack of eccentricity among American actors.

Finishing Up

Gemini Program Slated Tuesday

"Gemini," a new, one-hour documentary showing the incredible story behind America's first two-man mission will be presented June 1, 10:00 p. m. on Television Nine.

The program will be seen just two days before the scheduled Gemini Titan 4 space flight is launched from Cape Kennedy, Fla.

"Gemini" was produced in cooperation with the United States Air Force and the National Aeronautical Space Administration (NASA) by Seven Arts Associated Corp.

"Gemini" will trace the early beginnings of America's space program, going back to 1909 when then Army Lieutenant Benjamin D. Foulois was ordered to Fort Sam Houston with an appropriation of $150 to organize the U. S. Air Force. This was really the first step towards America's conquest of space.

Borgnine Out

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "McHale's Navy Joins The Air Force," second McHale movie, rolled without Ernest Borgnine, thanks to a salary dispute.

Southwest's Red-Skinned Terror Is Big Celebrity

By ROBERT E. HUBER

SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI) — Geronomo may have been a red-skinned terror in the Southwest, but folks here love him.

That's because Geronimo's Apaches, along with the Navajos and the Pueblo Indians, have become New Mexico's biggest tourist attractions.

In Santa Fe, the state's capital city, Pueblo Indians take up more film in tourists' cameras than any other sight in the 350-year-old city.

In Gallup, N.M., the annual Intertribal Ceremonial held late each summer draws far more tourists than it does Indians.

But many of the state's 80,000 Indians are reluctant about becoming tourist attractions. The Apaches, sardonic and often intolerant, still cling silently to their two reservations — Mescalero and Jicarilla. Only recently they have allowed photographs to be taken of the religious activities.

The Navajos, the nation's largest tribe of Indians, "come out" in September each year at their Navajo Fair at Window Rock, Ariz. They perform at the Gallup Ceremonial earlier in the year.

The two Apache reservations follow the Navajo pattern. The Mescalero Apache reservation in a beautiful mountain setting in southeastern New Mexico contains decendants of Geronimo's followers. Only recently have the Mescaleros opened their reservation for tourists.

The Jicarilla Apaches in northern New Mexico, however, hold a two-day celebration each year in mid-September, and appear more receptive to tourists.

The Pueblo Indians hold annual dances and ceremonials almost all months of the year, and they welcome visitors.

Beginning in January each year, the Taos Pueblo holds its annual Turtle Dance. The rest of the state's 19 pueblos follow suit with various festivals throughout the year.

The Pueblo Dances mix Christianity and ancient Indian rituals into a hodgepodge of holidays. The beginning of summer is symbolized by Indian dances on San Antonio's Day, June 13, and Santa Ana's feast day, July 25.

The Ute Indians living in the northwest corner of New Mexico are the most integrated group in the state.

But put them all together, the New Mexico Indian far outshines any natural wonder as far as the tourist is concerned. To the businessman in the state, it should never be any other way.

BIG SWINGER — Jackie Gleason filled television sets across the nation on his Saturday night features and with the coming summer months the "and away we go" chap will be replaced by one of the country's top musicians in the person of Al Hirt with his magic trumpet. Pound for pound there couldn't be a better fill-in.

PEPSI-COLA HALF-QUARTS

How About This Crazy Bird

HAMBURG, Germany (UPI) —Agila the Myna bird speaks three languages and embarrasses his zoo keepers in all of them.

"Look at our little genius," said a Hagenbeck Zoo official, pointing to the Indian bird's cage.

Agila sized up a pretty girl in front of his cage.

"Yi ya, sweetie-pie," Agila said.

"He's one of the most talkative birds we ever had," the keeper said. "He speaks German, English and French fluently. Sometimes I wish he'd just shut up."

A little boy and a double-chinned man in an expensive topcoat stood looking at the bird.

"Naughty boy!" exclaimed Agila to the man. "Guten morgen, Herr Doktor," (good morning, gentleman doctor) the bird said to the boy.

The boy laughed.

"Bonjour, cherie," said Agila to a woman with the man.

Zoo officials decline to say where they got Agila.

"But I will tell you he's very moody," the keeper said.

"When he spots the bird curator, Agila shuts up. But when he sees a zoo keeper he really likes, he'll come out with more words than you can register."

Agila is fond of greeting zoo visitors in German with such phrases as "Listen, have you got something for me?" and "Hell, have you come back again?"

But the keeper said visitors sometimes stop laughing when Agila gazes at a group and starts squawking: "Schweinebande"—German for "bunch of pigs."

PARK ATTRACTTION—If you think this little bear cub has lost his mother and is up a tree looking over the countryside for her, you're wrong. He's just one of the thousands of bears who get their pictures taken by the two million visitors to Yellowstone National Park each season. The Park also is a sanctuary for many other species of wildlife and visitors are encouraged that although the animals are friendly, they are not tame.

'Egypt Is The Nile, The Nile Is Egypt'

By MURRAY J. BROWN
UPI Travel Editor

ASWAN, Egypt (UPI) — "Egypt is the Nile, the Nile is Egypt."

The validity of the centuries-old maxim is brought home dramatically to the visitor who flies the 450 miles from Cairo to thits riverside own in southtern Egyp.

The flight via United Arab Airlines DC6 took about 2½ hours including a stopover at Luxor to disembark American and other tourists on the way to visit Luxor and Karnak temples, the royal underground tomths in the Valley of Kings and other attractions.

Within minutes after takeoff from Cairo with its modern nigh rise buildings and rustling streets, the four-engined airliner was headed southward at an altitude of about 5,000 geet over sun-baked desert on a course parallel to the Nile.

Except for a 10 to 15 mile strip of green vegetation bordering the river and a few scat-t ered riverside towns, there was no sign of human life in the wastelands.

To this correspondent, who came to Egypt at he invitation of the State Tourist Administration, the bare, billowing brown seas of sand resembled photographs of the moon's surface.

Rain seldom falls in this part of Africa and since pre-Biblical times much of Egypt's population has been forced to live close to the river and in the delta where water would be available.

But changes are in the offing. The new Aswan High Dam will help transform an estimated 2 million acres of deserts into cultivable lands.

The still-building dam is a major sightseeing attraction for tourists and one does not have to be an engineer or architect to be impressed by the project.

The town of Aswan itself was a pleasant surprise, at least to this visitor. Located on the first Cataract, it has been a favorite wintering place for centutres because of is scenic beauties and salubrious climate.

The constrtucion activitties apchange. Robed and urbanned Egyptians, including dark-skinned Nubians, sipped strong coffee in sidewalk cafes or hawked their wares in the native bazzar. Varities of sweett-smelling ropical flowers, graceful palms and other trtees grew in profusion along he banks of the Nile.

The late Aga Khan maintained a villa here for many years. Now his body rests in a white domed mosque-like tomb atop a hill across the river. It is open o visitors.

Small native feluccas, with outsized triangular sails, can be hired at moderate rates for the trip across the river as well as to historic Elephantine Island and other places of interest.

Elephantine Island is the site of ruins of temples, statues and obelisks built during the reigns of Egyptian Pharaohs and Roman Emperors. Here also is an ancient Nilometer where watchers registered the rise and fall of the river and warned those downstream of impending floods.

Other historical attractions include the temple of Kalabsha, built around 27 B. C. It was moved recently stone by stone — about 16,000 granite blocks weighing around a ton each — from the original site in the Nubian desert and reassembled on high ground here to prevent it from being submerged by the 300-mile lake forming behind the High Dam. Similar jigsaw operations are underway to save the famed Temple of Abu Simbel.

The waters of the present Aswan dam, built in the early 1900s, already cover all but the very tops of the Temple of Isis and Trajan's Temple on the island of Philae, once known as "The Pearl of Egypt." Dikes are planned to protect the island when it emerges from its water grave after the High Dam is completed and the waters of the Nile diverted.

Also worth visiting are the botanical gardens founded by Lord Kitchener on an island in the Nile and ancient quarries from which came granite for the pyramids, temples, tombs, statues and obelisks — including "Celopatrat's Needle" which now sands in New York Cittyt's Central Ptark.

TO APPEAR WITH CIRCUS—In a three-ring panorama that brings back the days of the horse and carriage, the Hamid-Morton International Circus coming to the Cumberland Fairgrounds June 4-7 highlights an equestrian display of distinction. Two of the performers in the act will be Julinda and Josette who will put Palomino stallions through a series of intricate maneuvers. The circus is being sponsored by Ali Ghan Shrine Temple.

Cruises Being Offered On Chesapeake Bay

Passenger boat cruises on the Chesapeake Bay are now being operated out of Annapolis under the management of Chesapeake Cruises, Inc.

The skipper for the cruises is Captain Gerry Morton of Arnold, Md.

He will take parties for four hours—or for a day, or any number of days up to two weeks. He is beginning with one boat—The Mustang—but will add a second—The Rebel—in June.

The Mustang is a characteristic two-masted Bay craft known as a "bugeye." It has accommodations for sleeping, cooking, refrigeration, dressing and bathing. It also offers television and radio. The Rebel is a three-masted schooner, similarly equipped. Both craft have auxiliary diesel engines.

There is an agreeable scope in the possible number of passengers. Both ships will take parties of six, or the two ships can be chartered together for still larger groups. If both boats are taken, the guests can occasionally change from one to the other.

As for itineraries, "the whole Bay is the range," Captain Morton is an old hand with years of experience on the Island Sea, and he knows not only the Chesapeake itself, but also its rivers, towns, shoreside eating places, and islands. He will go as far north as Elkton or as far south as Norfolk, Va., laying up for the night in the basins of hospitable yacht clubs or the harbors of picturesque fishing villages. He adds that passengers need not plan a whole cruise in advance, but may follow their inclinations on a day-to-day basis — wind and weather, of course, permitting.

Rates are by no means prohibitive. The four-hour trip for six people is $30. A whole day for six people is $50, plus dockage fees, which are small. Passengers pay for their own food, either taking their meals ashore or cooking on the boat. Bed linen is supplied by the boat. So is ice, in case, as Captain Morton says, somebody wants to enjoy a "favorite beverage."

Old Railroad Will Begin Scenic Tours

The Everett (Pa.) Railroad Company's historic schedule will begin today with tours being offered on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays throughout the summer. The trips begin at 1 p. m. and continue through the afternoon and early evening.

Passengers will board the train at the Everett station and the excursion will travel between Mt. Dallas and Tatesville. This is the same route covered by the railroad company's freight service.

Pulling the train will be a newly-acquired Baldwin locomotive, circa 1909. It was renovated recently at the Kneicht Foundry and Machine Shop at Salisbury, Pa.

Passenger accommodations will be provided aboard passenger coaches. For those who desire to view the route from the open, flat car, equipped with old church pews, will be available.

The seven-mile trip will take approximately one hour and scenic features along the roule will include Mt. Dallas Gap and railroad bridge, Raystown Branch, views of thee Pennsylvania Turnpike and the majestic sweep of towering Tussey Mountain.

Playhouse Will Open July 6

Garrett County Playhouse will open its 11th season July 6 at Blue Barn at Deep Creek Lake.

Eight plays will be presented this summer under the supervision of Gene Yell, an associate director of the Drama Department of the College of Fine Arts of the University of New Mexico.

The comedy "The White Sheep of the Family" will be the opening play at the playhouse and will run from July 6-10.

Other plays and their respective dates are "The Playboy of the Western World," July 13-17; "The Bat," July 20-24; "Come Blow Your Horn," July 27-31; "The Solid Gold Cadillac," August 3-7; "Pools Paradise," August 10-14; "The Seven Year Itch," August 17-21; and "Blithe Spirit," August 24-28.

Information about tickets may be obtained by writing to Garrett County Playhouse, Box 304, Oakland.

Pittsburgh Jazz Event June 18-20

The Pittsburgh Jazz Festival, scheduled at the Civic Arena June 18, 19 and 20, will have an added attraction to this year's overall program — a midnight ball to the music of Duke Ellington.

The dance, which will be held in the Civic Arena's Studio, is scheduled to follow the Saturday night concert, George Wein, producer of the Pittsburgh festival, as well as the Newport and Ohio Valley jazz festivals, said this is the first time for a dance to be directly connected with a jazz festival.

Other jazz artists scheduled for the three-day festival, will no doubt attend the ball and "sit-in" with The Duke. Admission to the dance, which will run until 4 a.m., is $5 per person. Refreshments will be available.

Tickets will be sold at Hughes & Hatcher in Downtown Pittsburgh, and the Catholic Youth Office, 111 Blvd. of the Allies, Pittsburgh, Pa., 15222. Mail orders will be accepted at the latter address only. Enclose check or money order, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Unsold tickets will be available at the Arena the night of the dance.

The Duke Ellington band is one of three which will perform at the Pittsburgh Festival. Count Basie will open the festival on Friday and Woody Herman is scheduled for the Sunday night concert.

The festival is sponsored by the CYO to help support its five neighborhood youth centers currently operating in neglected areas of Pittsburgh.

More American Students Plan Travel Abroad

American students will travel abroad in unprecedented numbers this year, with advance bookings pointing to an increase of about 15 per cent over the high recorded in 1964, according to a nationwide survey conducted by "Travel Weekly."

The trade publication reported that estimates show that about 172,500 students will go abroad this year, compared with 150,000 last year and 130,000 in 1963.

As in previous years, the majority of 1965 student travelers leaving the U.S. will head for Europe. About half of the programs will combine study and recreation.

An estimated 65,000 of the students will combine study and recreation.

An estimated 85,000 of the students will take part in curricula certified by one or more U. S. academic organizations as eligible for college credits.

Traveling by air and sea, the bulk of the students will be members of organized groups. In addition to Western and Eastern Europe, destinations include the Caribbean, South America and the Pacific area.

Ship Line Offering Summer Cruises

Five summer cruises to the Caribbean on the luxury liner Ocean Monarch have been scheduled by Furness Lines.

The fully-air conditioned Ocean Monarch, stabilized and specially designed for tropical cruising, provides luxurious accommodations, all with private bath facilities and telephone.

With summer no longer considered an "off-season" for Caribbean cruises, the Ocean Monarch's sailings have become so popular that they are usually booked well in advance of the departure dates.

The minimum rate is $375 per person, double occupancy, for the 13-day cruises from New York. All passengers enjoy full use of the extensive recreational facilities because there is only one pleasure class on the Ocean Monarch. The facilities include a swimming pool, theatre, promenade decks, ballrooms and a "Nite Owl" club, lounges, spacious sports decks and smoke room.

Here is a rundown on departure dates and ports of call: June 26, St. Thomas, Antigua, St. Lucia, Barbados and San Juan; July 10, St. Croix, Antigua, Martinique, Barbados and San Juan; July 24, St. Thomas, Barbados, Martinique and Bermuda (St. Georges); August 7, San Juan, St. Thomas, Barbados, Martinique, and St. Maarten; August 21, St. Thomas, Antigua, St. Lucia, Barbados and San Juan.

A unique feature of the voyages is "scenic cruising," developed by Furness to give vacationers the thrill of discovery. As the liner sails close by little-known islands, the officer on the bridge narrates a commentary over the loudspeaker system, spicing his talk with colorful details about the islands and their history.

A wide program of shipboard sports and social activities is arranged by an experienced cruise staff. But for vacationers seeking only relaxation, there are comfortable deck chairs to enjoy the bright sun, blue skies and balmy ocean breezes.

Gourmet meals are traditional on the Ocean Monarch, with afternoon tea and midnight snacks to further satisfy hearty "sea air" appetites.

The cruises include full daylight stays at all ports for sightseeing and 1 a. m. sailing from certain ports so passengers can enjoy a bit of night life. St. Thomas, St. Croix and Barbados are "duty free ports" which give passengers the opportunity to shop at prices far below stateside prices.

Reservations and further details are available from travel agents.
